Only one witness, Elmer E. Hague of South Walnut street, appeared in person before county commissioners P. O. Elder, T. J. McCullough and Calvin Boyd this forenoon when they met at the court house for the purpose of agreeing upon a distribution of the reward of $3200 offered for the capture of Irene Schrodter and Glenn Dague, murderers of Corporal Brady Paul.

Hague bases his claims for a share of the reward on an identification of the prisoners made in the Maricopa county jail. The identification was made by means of picture of Irene and Dague, published in The New Castle News.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

The three days work being furnished to men who need it, by the city, is certainly appreciated by a lot of men. Several men have spoken to Pa Newc about it—men who have been given the three days work. They say it means a lot to them and that they don't want charity but just the chance to earn money.

Today's weather is quite a contrast to that of Sunday. Many local folks took advantage of the nice day to make short motor trips to surrounding points.

Pa Newc overheard a prominent local business man say he had played a round of golf on Saturday. That's rushing the season a little, we would say.

Today was the first real sloppy day of the winter, which has been remarkably dry so far. Whenever it has snowed before it generally turned cold right afterwards.

Deputy Game Commissioner Frank Coen says Lawrence county has the worst reputation in the state for the return of game killed by hunters. This is compulsory and hunters who do not make the required return may have difficulty in getting a license next fall, he warns.

"A Quiet Observer" with apologies to the late Erasmus Wilson, whispered to Pa Newc this morning that he saw a truck slithering around on Delaware avenue the other morning, evidently trying to get to his garage to put on his 1931 plates.

While there aren't so very many ice skating ponds that remain here, a few of the better ones are drawing big crowds daily, and at night

Pennsylvania Will Operate Railroad To New Wilmington Boro

Scrapping of the 13 miles of tracks of the Sharpville railroad between New Wilmington and the Sharpville terminal will likely commence within a week or two, or probably as soon as a court order approving the sale of properties to the Pennsylvania, made Saturday in Mercer, is announced.

This was learned today at E. & A. divisional headquarters of the Pennsylvania here, after it became known the latter road had purchased the Sharpville properties for $180,000. Superintendent H. T. Frushour, who attended Saturday's sale at Mercer with two financial representatives of the company from Philadelphia, said his road would continue operations at the Sharpville yards and on the New Wilmington Junction-New Wilmington section.

In Three Parcels
The receiver's sale resulted in the acquisition of the Sharpville line in three parcels by the Erie and Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania and the Western New York and Pennsylvania railroad. All are Pennsylvania owned.

The Sharpville property, parcel one, brought $137,800. This includes the property buildings and equipment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—With President Hoover sponsoring the appeal of the American Red Cross for $10,000,000 to prevent want and suffering in drought-ridden states, and the smaller towns; congressional machinery was set in motion today to rescue the $45,000,000 seed and feed loan bill from its week-long deadlock.

The Red Cross has already eaten deeply into a $5,000,000 fund with which it expected to relieve suffering in more than 20 states blighted in the nation's greatest drought last summer.

Aid Is Badly Needed
Need for aid, according to reports to Payne, have become particularly acute in Arkansas, parts of Kentucky and Alabama. The drought, it is said, not only destroyed field crops but deprived many farmers of the living they usually get from gardens. In addition demands are ippine Island

(International News Service)
MANILA, Jan. 12.—After a hot battle between members of the constabulary and native outlaws, peace reigned today in the Tayug district.

Twelve persons were killed during the engagement. Two were officers in the constabulary and one was a private. Four men and three men in the outlaw band were slain. The wounded numbered six, three on each side.

The outlaws took refuge in a stone church, which was stormed by the constabulary led by Major Ramon Ochot.

The revolt was believed to have been launched to overthrow the local government at Tayug.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—While state prosecutors today were completing their grand jury presentation of evidence against Leo V. Brothers, held as the slayer of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, the suspect's mother, Mrs. Cordell Jessen of St. Louis, was directing a spirited fight to establish her son's innocence.

Members of the state's attorney's staff said they would complete the presentation of evidence against Brothers today and predicted that the indictment would be returned at once by the grand jury.

Meanwhile Brothers, a reputed gunman and labor organizer of St. Louis, was being closely guarded by state's attorney's men at a secret hideout. According to prosecutors, Brothers has been identified by at least nine witnesses as the lone Chicago Tribune reporter last June 9 as he was threatening his way through a pedestrian subway crowd at Randolph street.

Coroner's Jury Probes Death Of Washington Girl

Mystery Attends Several Facts
In Finding Of Young Girl
Shot To Death

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The coroner's jury today visited the old-fashioned house that sits alone near the district jail where Miss Beulah Limerick, 19, was mysteriously murdered December 31.

The jurors went there to make a mental picture of the house as a background for the conflicting evidence they have received.

To date they have been told by the physician who pronounced Miss Limerick dead, and the police, that the bedding on the couch upon which the girl was found dead, was not bloodstained, but members of the fire rescue squad testified the pillow and sheet were stained.

They were told by detectives that an exploded cartridge, found in an empty coffee cup in the kitchen, adjoining Miss Limerick's bedroom, was not there when they searched the house immediately after the killing became known.

Patrolman Robert F. Langdon, suspended and held in connection with the case, the policeman in the neighborhood, reported he found the bullet shell in the cup.

Langdon is held along with the girl's brother, Vernon Limerick, Richard Reed, a boarder at the home, and William E. Paddy who escorted the girl to a dance the night preceding her killing.

Senate Confirms Fletcher As Head Of Tariff Body

MARYVILLE, Mo., Jan. 12.—Raymond Gunn, negro, confessed attacker and slayer of Velma Colter, young rural school teacher, was burned to death at the scene of the crime, three miles southwest of here by a mob today.

The negro was chained to the roof of the little one room frame school building in which the attack and murder took place December 16 and the building set afire.

MARYVILLE, Mo., Jan. 12.—Raymond Gunn, Negro, alleged slayer of Velma Colter, young school teacher, was taken away from officers here today and spirited away by a mob of approximately 250 men.

The Negro was being taken from the county jail to the courthouse when the mob apparently waiting this move of the prisoner, surrounded the officers and demanded that the Negro be turned over to them.

With the Negro in their possession the mob entered several automobiles and drove out of town.

Foresee Lynching
It was believed by attaches of the sheriff's office here that the mob intended to lynch the Negro.

(International News Service)
STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 12.—Police today were seeking the owner of a blood-spattered automobile who was believed to have sped away from the scene of a crash in which a small child, one of a group playing on the sidewalk, was fatally injured.

Stanley Pawelczyk, nine-year old son of Herman Pawelczyk, crushed between the automobile and a picket fence, died shortly after the accident. His sister, Sarah, and his brother, Paul and Walter, were injured.

Screams of the children brought a number of parents to the scene of the accident. Possibly fearing mob violence, the driver was said to have thrown his car into reverse and scattered the crowd, before fleeing from the scene.

The car was found later by police, abandoned in a nearby alley.

WASHINGTON Jan. 12.—Deadlocked with President Hoover in its effort to remove three newly-appointed federal power commissioners, the Senate today plunged into a fresh controversy with the White House over confirmation of the new United States tariff commission.

The Democratic-insurgent coalition, which raised an unprecedented constitutional issue over the power commission, threatened an attack on at least two of the new tariff commissioners. Six appointees of the president—chairman Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, Thos. W. Page, of Virginia, John Lee Coulter, of North Dakota, Alfred P. Dennis, of Maryland, Edgar B. (International News Service)
LISBON, Jan. 12.—To the long list of victims lost in attempts to span the ocean wastes by air were feared added today the names of Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieutenant William MacLaren, missing since they left Bermuda en route to Paris in the seaplane Tradewind.

At the time when the vivacious red-haired woman flier and her enthusiastic companion were confident they would be seeing the sights of Paris after the first successful "pay load" flight from New York, traces of their plane were being sought along the 2,040 miles expanse separating Bermuda from the Azores.

No Word Received
As the hours passed with no word being received, the conviction grew that wind and weather had spiked their daring plans and that their fleet white plane is now at the bottom of the sea.

Two things were believed certain here today. One that the plane was no longer aloft. The other was that it could no longer be floating on the surface of the waves even though a crash did not result when the Tradewind was forced to descend.

Twenty hours at the outside was regarded as the limit during which the plane could remain aloft in calm weather, and since the fliers took off from Hamilton harbor, the winds have increased in intensity.

Where are the sports of the yesterday, skating and riding a sled, the winters now seem to change in style and the old time sports seem dead. But there was a time when the winter months meant skating on frozen glass, or riding a bob down a hilly street, all gone now it seems, alas, they were sports for a king when you were a kid, but that was before the day of automobiles when the fastest thing was a motor you fed with hay. But the times have changed and ... sport seems done, and sled riding seems taboo, for the motor has killed off this best thing, the weather is dry too.

Richards Feted By Pennsy Force

Departing Master Mechanic,
Now At Olean, N. Y.,
Is Honor Guest

SEVENTY M. OF E. WORKERS PRESENT

Honoring J. S. Richards, master mechanic of the Erie & Ashtabula division of the Pennsylvania railroad for the past two years, but who was transferred to a similar post at Olean, N. Y., last week, 65 members of the division's Foremen's club, together with the division officials assembled for a testimonial dinner in the Fountain Inn Saturday night.

To Mr. Richards, the honor guest, the occasion was one of regret, and at the same time one of regret. It was two years to the very day that he came to New Castle to assume the master mechanic's duties of the division.

The hotel dining room, especially reserved for the dinner, provided a home-like setting, and with an orchestra like that of Teut's Pennsylvanians playing, the arrangements were complete. H. M. Culbertson directed the musicians.

Director Culbertson's entertainers played while the delicious dinner was served, as well as after.

Robison in Charge.

Filling the part of toastmaster for the evening was H. E. Robison, this city president of the foremen's organization. With his sparkling wit he kept the interest at high pitch, calling on different Pennsylvania men for brief remarks.

The high-light of the after-dinner program came when R. E. O'Donnell, engineer foreman at Cherry street, presented to Mr. Richards, in behalf of the entire club, a fine easy chair and an all-leather golf bag.

Responding to Mr. O'Donnell's speech, Mr. Richards, in an appropriate way, thanked them for the gifts. He assured them of the high regard for his fellow workers that he holds, but said he didn't regard the departure as the last time he would see them, for he intends to frequently come back. He said it was a coincidence that the banquet was being held exactly two years to the day after he had become master mechanic here.

Officials Speak.

Superintendent H. T. Frushour with his entire official staff, was present. Trainmaster P. J. Perry, Road Foreman of Engines T. L. Bailey, Division Operator J. C. Hanrahan, Supervising Agent E. A. Fenton and Joseph S. Gillum, new division engineer of the division, contributed their praise to Mr. Richards' record, wishing him success in his new work at Olean. Superintendent Frushour spoke last, citing the earnest desire that Mr. Richards always had in cooperating with the plans of the management.

Others speaking were S. C. Crouser, New Castle; J. S. Shields, New Castle; L. F. Kummer, New Castle; B. J. Martin, New Castle; Riley H. Cruse, Youngstown; E. S. Hassler, Youngstown, and other maintenance of equipment men. Toastmaster Robison had a spicy introduction for each.

During the early part of the evening pop singing also featured, with R. E. Johns leading. Owing to a misunderstanding in arrangements, Mr. Johns could not contribute a solo number which had been planned for.

Mr. Richards is being succeeded here by W. O. Teufel. He was unable to attend the farewell dinner for his predecessor.

Miss Effie Sohadi and Mr. Elmer Uriah Dippes, after living in the same town all their already matured lives, at last were formally introduced to each other. Their acquaintance went on and ripened into courtship. At last they decided to marry.

Now both Miss Effie and Elmer Uriah had property in their own right. The matter of the property frequently was the subject of their conversation in moments when they were alone together, so one day a verbal promise was made between them that should Miss Effie die before Elmer Uriah, he must not expect or accept any property that she may have, and the marriage took place.

After the marriage Miss Effie had Elmer Uriah put his promise into writing at the urging of her relatives, and he was agreeable. Several years later Miss Effie, now Mrs. Dippes, died and left a will bequeathing all her property to her near relatives. Immediately the relatives filed suit to keep Elmer Uriah from claiming the property in other words, to hold him to his agreement. But this very act of filing a suit led Elmer to believe that he had a right to the property after all, so at the trial he argued that the verbal contract was not binding under the statute and the fact that it was later put into writing did not make it any more binding.

murder to his underworld dealings which netted him $65,000 annually in "protection" tributes.

Arriving here yesterday to lead the fight to prove her son's innocence in Chicago's most spectacular gang murder, Mrs. Jessen announced that she is able to prove he was not in Chicago when the reporter was killed. The 47-year-old mother said she could prove that Brothers was at a Michigan resort 100 miles from Chicago when a lone gunman murdered Lingle.

Lingle's case pointed out that her son is much taller than descriptions of the actual slayer indicated. Mrs. Jessen also stated that Brothers feared firearms all his life and dreaded to shoot a revolver.

A writ of habeas corpus has been filed in behalf of the suspect. The writ was made returnable next Wednesday. In the meantime Brothers has been held incommunicado, authorities even refusing him an audience with attorneys whom Mrs. Jessen has engaged.

Municipal representatives and a huge crowd lined the waterfront as the black squadron into the harbor, with the remaining three units landing at short intervals. After an enthusiastic public welcome the fliers were taken to the Villa Bartilotti for official functions.

The 500-mile flight down the coast was made without incident, although headwinds buffeted the machines nearly all the way.

The crew was saved.

kicking up tremendous seas, disabling ocean liners and crushing the last vestige of hope that the Tradewind might outride the storm.

One slim, outside chance of safety remained. That was that the fliers might have been picked up, some time shortly after they were forced to descend, by some small fishing or freight boat not equipped with wireless. In this event, it might be some days yet before the vessel reached port with word of the rescue, and it was on this sole remaining chance that well-wishers here pinned their last hopes.

An indication of the weather the fliers met here encountered after leaving Bermuda was brought here by the German steamer Mariehorn from Trinidad. The ship arrived in tow of another German vessel, the Ingridhorn, having lost her rudder in the storm. No trace of the Tradewind was seen on the journey, nor was any word heard of the plane's plight.

The radio station on the island of Fayal also reported no news.

ment in the Sharpville territory and was purchased by the E. & P. The New Wilmington property, parcel two, was bid in for $10,300 and included the real estate and trackage in New Wilmington, and parcel three was purchased by the W. N. Y. and P. at a price of $11,959.

Operations over the Sharpville road continued today, it was learned. Officials here expect they will continue until the court order officially closing the sale is made.

The Pennsylvania will maintain freight service into New Wilmington, but no additional passenger service into the college town is planned.

The sale on Saturday brings to a firm proceedings for abandonment of the line instituted by the road's co-receivers, G. M. McIlvaine and C. H. Miller, some time ago.

Deaths of the Day

January 12, 1931

Hugh M. Morrow, well known and highly respected resident of the East Side district for many years, died Saturday, January 10, 1931 at 11:55 p. m., at the family residence, 831 Lathrop street, following a few days' illness of pneumonia.

Mr. Morrow was born May 9, 1854 in Shenango township, the son of Hugh and Mary Young Morrow and was in his 77th year. He had been a resident of the city for the past twenty-five years.

He was married in 1876 to Ellen Campbell, who preceded him in death 27 years ago. He leaves the following children, Hugh C. William M. Rolla B. and Hannah B. Morrow, all of this city, also six grand children and one great grandchild, and a brother, William H. Morrow, of Shenango township.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday, January 13, 1931 at 2 p. m., at the late residence 831 Lathrop street. Interment will be made in Gracefield Cemetery.

Mrs. Anna G. Bell.
Funeral services of the late Mrs. Anna Gladys Bell, aged 40, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Barge of 842 Vogan avenue, this city, were held Saturday afternoon at Corry, Pa., with Rev. G. Morgan officiating. Interment was made in Pine Crest Cemetery at Corry.

Mrs. Bell, who previous to taking up her residence in Corry eight years ago, was a well known and highly respected resident of this city, and county, died in the Corry hospital at 5 p. m., January 8, 1931. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Barge, two brothers, Howard and Glenn Barge and one sister, Dorothy Barge, also four children, Glenn, George, Mamie and Ruth.

George Stevenson.
George Stevenson, age 58, 234 Patgreen avenue, Youngstown, O., city chemist of Youngstown, O., died in the Youngstown hospital on Saturday evening at 10:30 o'clock. Mr. Stevenson was a cousin of Mrs. Charles Lindner of this city and was well known, particularly among members of the Masonic fraternity.

For many months he had been ailing, but kept at his duties until some days ago, when he collapsed. He attempted to return to work, but had to be sent to the hospital, declining steadily until his death.

Aside from being the city chemist of Youngstown, Mr. Stevenson was an organist of ability. He served many years as the organist of the Tabernacle U. P. church and also interested himself in Masonic music. He was a member of the Western Star Lodge, F. & A. M., and the Knights Templar.

Funeral services will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 13, at 2:30 p. m. from the Tabernacle U. P. church. The body will lie in state from 10 a. m. until the time of the services. These will be in charge of the various Masonic bodies of Youngstown, O.

GARDEN CLUB HEARS BOTANY TEACHER

The members of the Garden Club of the city had a guest day Saturday at the home of Mrs. S. D. Pearson, Moody avenue which was opened by Mrs. W. C. Eckenrood.

The roll call was answered by "One Reason Why I Garden" and some most interesting reasons were given. Mrs. David Ritchie read a report on the club work and Mrs. D. Howley gave the secretary's report. Telling of the work accomplished by the club the past year, the scrap books made, the better lawns created, which turned out so well, the Road of Remembrance, and many other means by which the town was made a more beautiful place to live in.

Mrs. S. D. Pearson read a number of letters from the heads of clubs in nearby cities asking for suggestions as to the work of this club and how they could be used in the various places.

Three guests were present from the Hickory Heights P. T. A. who plan on taking up gardening in their school this year.

Mrs. Kennedy was in charge of the program and introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Dr. R. C. Waldron, botanist and biologist of Slippery Rock State Teachers' College, whose talk was most interesting and inspirational.

He gave the history of flowers, plants and trees in Pennsylvania coming down the ages from centuries ago to the present day, telling of the formation, the changes in detail and the development of them.

He explained the high development of the pansy, violet and orchid, how they had been transformed into the most delicate of flowers by careful handling. He told of how beauty spots were created by the addition of flowers and took up the phase also of the development by nature, not by man, telling how many spots of beauty could not be improved on by the hand of man.

He spoke of the early spring flowers, the various kinds to be found and told of the places they can be found and informed the club members that he would be glad to conduct a party of them to the places of these early flowers when they make their appearance.

He commended the women on the work accomplished the past year and offered any assistance he could give in helping them to further their work the coming year.

CREATE EMPLOYMENT—NOT DOLES

HERE in the United States, where there is no dole or unemployment insurance, there are those who prescribe government insurance as the one and only cure for unemployment. In Europe the countries "on the dole" concede the failure of the system and are frantically seeking a way out.

Subsidizing the idle is often represented in the United States as the salvation of the American industrial system. Europeans point to it as a chief cause of distress. Must the American people again learn from bitter experience, or will they remember that not every thing imported is good?

The latest indictment of the dole comes from Hermann Dietrich, German finance minister. He terms unemployment insurance a "mortal danger to the capitalistic system," and argues that if the government must confer a premium let it be upon labor, not upon idleness. There is logic in his argument that the government should create employment with its dole money, instead of creating idleness and idleness.

When a government establishes a system of unemployment insurance to which the beneficiary makes no direct contribution during his productive years, it is headed for socialization of industry. No government can go on perpetually supporting a considerable portion of its people in idleness.

No one has been so completely carried away by his visions of a utopia founded upon the dole as to claim for it the power to restore prosperity, but Germany and Great Britain are in accord on the necessity of abolishing the dole if they are to restore their own industrial prosperity.

NICARAGUA AGAIN

Skirmishes between revolutionists and United States marines in Nicaragua resurrect that old issue of occupation by the United States of the Central American republic. The country is in for some more haranguing from Washington on the pros and cons of intervention.

Opponents of intervention are using the American casualties as an argument for withdrawal of the marines, whereas those casualties are the best argument for keeping an armed force in Nicaragua for the protection of Americans and American property. The fact that American civilians and soldiers are slain is proof that the native government is either unable or unwilling to make their position secure.

Nicaragua invited American capital and American workers to develop her natural resources and to bring her trade. With that invitation went a guarantee of reasonable security. Having failed to maintain that guarantee, the native government must accept intervention and should welcome it.

Secretary Stimson would like to withdraw the marines from Nicaragua after the presidential election in 1932. That program is, however, contingent upon the establishment of a native military force capable of maintaining peace and order. Even those who differ with the proposition that Washington is justified in sending armed forces into a republic that it not at war with the United States will not admit that Washington would be justified in exposing the lives and property of Americans to jeopardy. But where is the difference?

IT WAS BOUND TO HAPPEN

Invariably when rich men, or those poor because of bad investments, die, the inventories of their estates include a list of worthless securities of varying lengths. Usually they are appraised at $1 per block, irrespective of par values or purchasing price, but they bring nothing to the heirs but so much engraved paper.

There are exceptions, and an exceptional exception has just received newspaper recognition, or—which is more likely—has been discovered by the reporters.

Many years ago J. Ogden Armour invested $3,000,000 in an oil-cracking process in which he saw possibilities of making millions. Before the process could be placed in profitable use, post-war losses wiped out the bulk of his wealth and, following his death in 1927, his creditors passed over the oil-cracking process stock as valueless.

Suddenly these worthless securities became valuable, so valuable that they have just paid Armour's widow $8,000,000 in addition to a handsome profit for months prior to the sale. Had she burned them or disposed of them on the "gilt-edge" market for a few pennies she would have been out these millions.

"Worthless" stocks seldom produce millions, but the eternal hope that they will leads countless victims of wildcat stock deals to cling tenaciously to their pretty but valueless paper like so many government bonds and even to bid them up at auctions where such paper can occasionally be purchased for a song.

SHOULD TRAIN FOR GOVERNMENT

Government is business. It is the most important business conducted in this country. It should be in the hands of business experts—men with business acumen and with vision. As the American people advance in knowledge and in comprehension of governmental problems, they are going to be more and more careful and exacting as to the fitness of men elected to governmental positions. In truth, the people, ultimately, will be as particular in choosing public officials as a carefully managed private corporation is in choosing its executives. This will demand careful preparation of men to hold public office—and the term "men" is used here generically, for women will be holding public offices, in future, in greater and greater numbers.

The time is coming when men and women will be trained carefully and thoroughly not only in the rudiments of civil government, but in the details and ramifications of public service. And from persons thus trained, public offices will be filled. Statesmanship will not suffer debasement by being put upon a basis more nearly like successful private business. Men and women should be trained with the utmost thoroughness for public service and should be elected and advanced on their demonstrated merits. The United States may be far from such a condition and course as this, but it is sure to come in that greater future toward which this nation and people are moving.—The Pasadena Star-News.

IF YOU LISTEN:
If you listen, you will hear a strange, sweet music in life. Sit in your arm chair alone in a room, and listen to the clock. Listen to nothing else. Soon you will hear a simple rhythm. The sound is not just one tick after another, measured and exact—but a regular beat and flow of sound.

Listen to life everywhere and you will hear that rhythm. You cannot miss it if you really lean over and cock your ear. Lie on your back in the grass beneath a tree. The sounds of the little people that live close to the earth will make music. That green landscape becomes a widespread symphony.

Look about you at the lives of all the people you know. You will hear or see that strange music. It is not all discord, not all a haphazard, higgledy piggledy of sound. It may be a light song, or it may be a deeply tragic one, but something is there for you to hear—if only you will wait a while—and use your ears—and listen!

It is there and it is yours, if you have but the patience to seek it. It may abuse you and tickle you to laughter. It may come crashing in like those immense green waves that thunder on our ocean shores. But it is there in all our lives and you cannot miss it.

I know a deaf man and you might say of him that music has gone forever from his life. But he can pick up black and white scores—mere ink on paper—and hear all the music men have written. He is freed forever from dressing up and going out and buying tickets and sitting alongside people who cough and wait for the conductor to come in, and making his way home after the concert. He may sit in his little room and hear it all. He can read, he can listen, he can hear that music in his brain, in his heart... a strange, silent music of his own. Listen for such music!

Youngstown Merger Ruling Called Stockholder Victory

Ohio Court Decision Hailed As Result Of Courageous Attitude On Part Of Court And Counsel For Minority Interests In Company

While the United States Supreme Court is expected to pass final judgment on the proposed merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, the decision of Judge David G. Jenkins, holding up the project, is viewed as an important contribution to corporation law.

The court is credited with courageous action in emphasizing the ethical side of the proceedings, and Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland capitalist, is declared to have made an effective fight for the rights of minority stockholders. The intended establishing of a "billion-dollar corporation" gives importance to the case.

Another chapter in the year's most notable litigation is seen by the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE, which observes "interesting personalities on both sides—Charles M. Schwab and Eugene G. Grace of the Bethlehem and the veteran steelmaster, James A. Campbell, of the Sheet and Tube, among the representatives of the pro-merger group, and on the other hand, the exceptionally energetic and determined opposition led by Cyrus S. Eaton of Cleveland, who coming to the United States from Canada in 1900 as a lad of seventeen, has since developed into one of the outstanding financiers of the country." The Pittsburgh paper also emphasizes the finding that "the stockholders of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company had not been given sufficient information before the merger vote was taken," and it concludes: "Naturally the public at large cannot be expected offhand to form a judgment on the merits of a case so vast and complicated. There is assurance in the finding for minority interests in cases of this character that their proverbial day in court is not a master's phrase. It is recognized, of course, that the pro-merger forces may carry the case to the highest court."

"The decision and opinion of Judge Jenkins, on the whole," according to the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, "is an important lesson for big business, regardless of whether or not the merger of the two corporations is desirable." The Bulletin also comments: "The declaration of the court that the part played by one director in common of both the Bethlehem and Youngstown directorates, 'regardless of his intentions,' was a 'breach of trust and contrary to public policy,' goes very deeply into the question of a director's responsibility and whether or not a director can serve two masters. The fact that the directors, at their meeting, simply ratified an arrangement already decided upon and that one director, opposed to the merger, had no opportunity to inform himself from essential data as to the merits of the proposition, is declared by the Court to be shocking, setting up a standard of ethics for big business that has never been set before."

It is not a small matter, declares the COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL, "that Judge Jenkins found so many vital matters meriting the rebuke of the court." That paper also feels that "it is of vast importance that the court rose to the situation and took a brave stand in demanding the utmost of good faith and fair dealing in such proceedings." The State Journal also says: "The fact that Bethlehem officials had distributed some millions annually in bonus payments came out in the hearing and was entirely new to the stockholders. They had a right to know that President Grace was paid for one year $1,000,000 salary and bonus. Funds of the company belong to the stockholders and fabulous salaries never have been included as ordinary affairs of business management. The fact that incorrect figures were placed in the hands of two groups of stockholders of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company was an ugly feature in the case and the court refused to validate it by judicial approval."

"The injunction now secured by the Eaton group," thinks the SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) REPUBLICAN, "reveals the possibilities when a determined, pugacious capitalist of large resources seeks to prevent such a combination, involving his own property interests." The NEWARK EVENING NEWS offers the judgment that the decision "is a timely treatise on business good faith, efficient corporate stewardship, honest accountancy and fair dealing all round," that the court "leaves no doubt of his conviction that square dealing was not uniformly present in the merger set-up and was largely absent from the negotiations which undertook to combine the two companies."

Whether or not the injunction is upheld, concludes the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, "it administers a deserved rebuke to men who departed from modern standards of corporate ethics, who failed to take their stockholders into their full confidence but submitted to them incomplete and misleading information. Such practices are not and should not be tolerated by the courts. Certainly they are not approved by progressive leaders of corporate industry and corporate finance."

"It was Eaton and his counselors," asserts the BIRMINGHAM NEWS, "who fought the thing through from the start. It was a battle of giants beside which the old wars between the Harrimans and the Morgans, before ever the Age of Bigger Business dawned, pale into insignificance. Curiously enough, the Youngstown judges, who made the act, which in former days was the bane to frighten big business away from these mergers. What inspired the justice in his ruling against the Bethlehem steam-rolling magnates was that the Sheet and Tube directors—a majority of the directors, incidentally—employed three accountants who, whether intentionally or not, made a misleading statement of the finances of Sheet and Tube."

"Certainly no fault can be found," in the opinion of the WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE, "with the judgment of the court, requiring knowledge of accounting facts where the outstanding question at issue is the equity of an interchange of stock. The public reaction in this instance is likely to be that in the negotiations leading to the vote on the merger there was too much naivete as to the truth or else reluctance to have the plain truth presented. Whether carelessness or sharp practice is the right name to apply, in either case the lawyer may well wait for more light on the trading figures."

In the day of complicated business, when people do not see the property they buy into but only see a piece of paper, very few are able to tell good investments from bad, so they shouldn't be ashamed to ask questions. They should take their time and make inquiries about any investment they are urged to buy.

Most people in buying a small home or a lot on which to build a home take a long time to decide. They shop around to make sure the price is right and they hire lawyers to make sure the title is good. Sometimes the original investment is only a few hundred or a few thousands of dollars. Why shouldn't they be as careful about buying securities?

The broker or salesman who urges haste in buying a security is generally something that the average person had better go slow in buying. If a security is an exceptional bargain it won't be offered to people of moderate means. It won't get past the big fellows.

No matter what the salesman says, one should not be in a hurry. There will be just as good bargains next year. If the proposition is sound it will not need any high pressure to sell it. It will sell without being forced on buyers.

Whatever else one does he shouldn't buy securities from dealers who have not established a reputation for integrity and conservatism. One should not judge the broker by the furniture in his office or by the size of his office.

Even old, established security dealers may make mistakes but most of them will not knowingly cheat a person. It is not so depending on his own judgment to buy securities then he has a better chance by dealing with an established house of known good repute.

Burton Plant Heads Gather In Cleveland

Make Preparations For Opening Industry At Covert's Station

TALKS MADE BY COMPANY HEADS

Officials and department heads of Burton Explosives Inc. held an important gathering in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Cleveland, O., Saturday, when plans were discussed for opening their new plant at Covert's station, and the duties of the various department heads were outlined.

There were 27 employees from the plant at New Castle in attendance at the dinner and round table discussion, the trip being made in a special car over the P. and L. E. Leonard Weitz, treasurer of the company, presided as toastmaster at the dinner, and talks were given by a majority of those present, including the sales representatives from various sections of the country.

The finishing touches are now being put on the local plant, and operations are expected to be started sometime between January 15 and 25.

Operations are expected to be continued steadily when the plant is started, and a banner year is looked forward to by President Burton.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c. 30c. 60c.

Mercer County School Directors To Convene

(Special To The News)
MERCER, Pa. The annual convention of the school Directors Association of Mercer County will be held in the assembly room of the court house Thursday and Friday, January 15 and 16. The president, W. J. Gilmore, will be in the chair. County Superintendent of Schools, W. M. Johnston who prepared the program for the meeting, has engaged a fine corps of speakers and a most profitable gathering is anticipated.

One of the features of the Pennsylvania farm products show to be held at Harrisburg, January 19-23 will be a demonstration of the official farming by students of the Fredonia vocational school. A team of four boys is being trained for the event. The county will also contribute ten car loads of livestock, including cattle, sheep and swine, and it is anticipated that many of the most coveted prizes will be won by Mercer County exhibitors.

A reception for Rev. and Mrs. Claude S. Conley will be held Thursday, January 15 at the Presbyterian church of which he has assumed charge as pastor.

The emergency landing field north east of Mercer, owned and maintained by the United States government and used by the National Air Transport company of Chicago which has the contract for carrying the transcontinental air mail, likely will be greatly enlarged during the present year. It is understood that options have been taken on tracts of land from the Sergeant and Bentley farms adjoining on the north and west which will double the size of the field. It is the aim of the department of commerce, in charge of the airport, to provide space for runways one half mile long, both north and south and east and west. With the inaugura-

Make Milk Staple Part Of The Diet

Wholesome, Balanced Food Necessary For Child

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
The basic articles of diet for the younger children are also the staples for the child from five to seven. Milk, cereals, eggs, green vegetables and fruits should predominate in the diet. Sweets and pastries and all starchy and vitaminless foods should be kept in the background. Meat may be added gradually and slowly to the diet. Meat is rather like sugar in that it spoils the appetite for other and more valuable foods. Nor is it a complete or economic food as other things. Bread and milk contain more easily available calcium as well as other salts and vitamins. But some meat should be added to the growing child's diet. As we grow older up to fifty, meat becomes more and more a desirable element of the diet. With schooling started and a regular schedule of work each week, the dietary will have to conform to these necessities.

The time schedule is now the same as for the adults—three meals a day. The general plan of the dietary may be the same, allowing the child to partake of what its elders eat. Milk, however, should still be a staple part of the child's diet. The period of infancy when the digestive tract was easily upset is over. Growth processes have been established and dietary errors are not so rapidly or certainly followed by a retribution. A child started well in bone formation, blood formation and growth is half there. But this does not mean that dietary rules can be broken with impunity. Wholesome food, well balanced as to starches, fats and proteins, with fresh vegetables and fruits, is still essential to health. Looking to the economic side, a lunch should contain 800 calories. Such a lunch can be served by a school lunch service for 18 cents, thus: Split pea soup, 5c; veal stew with vegetables, bread and butter, 10c; a glass of milk, 3c.

Or: Lima beans (125 calories), 3c; chopped egg sandwich (200 calories), 4c; a glass of milk (140 calories), 3c; bread pudding with chocolate sauce (275 calories), 4c, and an apple (50 calories), 1c; 790 calories, 15c.

These are actual quotations from the lunch served at a New York high school, where the pupils are taught to buy adequate lunches at low cost.

One important feature of feeding the older child is to cultivate a taste for a variety of foods. Habits are easy to form at this time, and if your child learns to like all kinds of food, you are saving a lot of trouble for somebody in the future. Members of a family who "won't touch this or that," are the bane of the housewife's existence.

A good book issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture is Farmers' Bulletin No. 717, "Food for Young Children."

Peter's Adventures

COMMANDER IS IN A CORNER
"Most everyone who has to lug a heavy burden very far gets tired and cross. But not the sweet-tempered Black Ant who had been Commander's horse. This insect didn't seem to think of herself at all, but only of the comfort of her Redskin mistress.

"I hope I didn't jar you," said she to Commander. "I tried to step as lightly as I could."

"You did well, Lively," Commander was gracious. "I didn't feel a bump. Now go and get your dinner and when you have eaten your fill, bring me something to eat. I haven't done the hard work that you have, and so I am not as hungry."

"How thoughtful of you, mistress!" cried Lively, much pleased. "But I couldn't think of leaving you until I'd found you a soft spot where you can take a nap."

"That's a good idea," agreed Commander. "Well, pick me up and put me over there, against that farther pillar in the corner of the hall. There I shall be out of everybody's way and in a place of vantage where I can keep my eye on everybody. And when I grow weary of watching what is going on, I can rest. There's danger, and if not danger, there's discomfort in lying around where anybody is likely to step on you."

Commander mumbled the last words as she curled herself into a ball, and as Lively trotted off with her, said something to Peter which Peter did not catch. Because he did not know quite what else to do, the boy followed Lively and her mistress into the corner.

Orders Death Of Cat In Her Will

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 12.—"I desire that our cat, Spark, be chloroformed immediately," is the strange provision made in the will of the late Sally G. Metzger, filed for probate in the D'Aliphan County court-house here.

For the chloroforming, a local veterinarian is to receive $25 "for his kindness."

Attorneys for the deceased woman said the provision was inserted in the will because of fears of the cat's owner that it would meet with ill treatment after her death.

Unemployed Cheered By Announcement Of Industrial Revivals

Organization Works To Give Unemployed Odd Jobs

Building Trades Employers' Announce Rotation-Of-Work Plan As Aid

(International News Service)

Thousands of unemployed workers in western Pennsylvania were cheered today by the announcement of the adoption of two plans looking to early revival of busy industrial conditions.

One plan, sponsored by the Helping Hand association, a welfare organization, divides the Pittsburgh and Allegheny county territory into districts in which organization of neighborhood groups to coordinate their efforts in giving unemployed men an opportunity to divide their time among odd jobs in various homes.

Rotation-of-Work.

The Building Trades Employers' association has announced a rotation-of-work plan whereby approximately 5,000 men will be given employment through alternating the work. These 5,000 additional workers will alternate with the more fortunate now possessed of employment, each group taking a week's turn.

Considerable interest is attached to the Helping Hand movement with other communities ready to place a similar plan in operation should the newly inaugurated movement prove successful.

Under the plan, the odd-job workers will receive a flat rate of five cents per month for each front foot of property served. One worker, taking care of odd jobs for property owners, would receive a monthly wage of $60 if his time was split up among 24 owners of 50-foot lots.

Mines Resuming.

Meanwhile, the ranks of the unemployed were further depleted through the resumption of mining and industrial operations. The Philadelphia company, which has taken over two miles near Greensboro, on the Monongahela river in Greene county, planned to start work in both operations today with 100 men comprising the starting force.

Construction work on the new $350,000 river-rail terminal of the Pennsylvania railroad at Baden, on the Ohio river, is expected to get under way by March 1. Plans of the terminal have been mailed out and will be in the hands of contractors today.

The Pittsburgh Steel company has announced the recall of 350 men at Monessen. Resumption of operations at the Allegheny plant of the Pittsburgh Steel concern was given further impetus through the revival of two rolling mills and the Pilger mill. Idle employees have been ordered to report at their jobs today and 1,200 men are expected to be back at their old posts by the end of the week.

City To Purchase

Half Ton Truck

Colleagues during councilmanic session at the municipal building today granted authority to Councilman Louis Gensinger to purchase a half-ton truck to be used by the department of parks and property.

If You Were Dying Tonight!

And I Offered You a
New Lease on Life
Would You Take It?

Would you! You'd grab it as a drowning man would a straw. But—it would be too late. Nothing short of a miracle would save you then. Through your mind would be running thoughts of how it all came about. Perhaps you would have many regrets because your carelessly neglected the early warnings of approaching illness. You would be thinking of the slight distress, the small aches and pains that seemed too trifling to you then and how they slowly but surely undermined your health until finally you were bedridden before you knew what happened.

Don't wait until you are dying; pains, aches and distress that are warning of the serious illness of later years. To allow such conditions to continue is nothing short of a crime against nature.

Most people have been what they term half sick for so long that they have to be laid up in bed before they realize they are ailing.

To you, friend, good health is the greatest blessing God can give. He didn't intend that you should mope through the day feeling tired, worn out and weak. He wants you to be healthy, vigorous and buoyant. He wants you to sleep with the restful slumber of a child, to wake up refreshed, hungry for your breakfast, ready for the hardest day's work.

Now! Now! Is the time for you to act. Don't wait until you are bedridden, or until your health is so undermined that you are beyond human aid.

But don't be discouraged when you read this. There is hope even for those old chronic cases. "Nu-Erb" is now available to all. The rich man cannot buy anything better, yet it is so inexpensive that even the poorest can afford it.

If you suffer from stomach trouble, indigestion or gastritis, if your kidneys, liver or bowels have become weakened so that they are not functioning properly, if you are nervous, feel tired and worn out, if you want to overcome these troubles, take "Nu-Erb".

Meet the NU-ERB man today at Ecker's Cut Rate Store, New Castle. He will gladly explain to you more fully the many merits of this unusual medicine. Trial Bottle Given FREE.

FIRST CO-ED OFFICER AT COLLEGE

A 41-year-old precedent is broken by the election of Miss Jessamine Bland of Raleigh, as secretary-treasurer of the freshman class of the North Carolina State college, at Raleigh, N. C. She is the first woman ever elected to a class office at the college. Women have their own student government at the college, but the male governing body of the institution refuses to recognize their government.

No Action Taken

On Employees' Fees

Council met in session at the City building today but took no action on an ordinance, which if adopted would repeal an ordinance which compels city employees who appear as court case witnesses to turn fees over to the city.

After some discussion by councilmen the solons agreed to let the ordinance remain in committee until statistics showing the fees which were paid before the bill was adopted and the fees which would have been received are furnished council.

Burns Relates Cost

Of Municipal Work

Councilman Burns today gave a report to council concerning the amount of money used up to January 1 for municipal work on The Narrows and Meyer avenue. He said that The Narrows cost $4,000 and Meyer avenue $4,500. Wages have been paid out also during January but these figures were not included.

Councilman Trester stated to colleagues that Meyer avenue storm sewer construction has proceeded to the point where about only 50 men can be put to work on Thursday.

Barlett, Youthful

Aviator Pays Fine,

Waives Hearing

Boy Aviator Pleads Guilty To Inspectors' Charge Of Flying With No Lights

Waiving a hearing in a case which has had no precedence in the history of Lawrence county, Arthur Barlett of New Wilmington, boy pilot, who piloted the plane which crashed near Edensburg several weeks ago, killing Fleming Constock, New Wilmington boy, paid a fine of $50 in Alderman W. E. Marshall's office Saturday afternoon in answer to an information filed against him by Lorin C. Faurst, aviation inspector.

The case was the first of its kind in the county. The specific violation with which the young pilot was charged was flying an hour after sundown without lights. The fine for the offense is from $50 to $500, and the aviator received the minimum fine.

The aviation inspector declared that the prosecution was a disciplinary measure. The prosecution regretted the accident in which Constock, was killed in the Edensburg crash while riding with Barlett, who is the son of a Methodist minister.

Ahepans Install

Officers For Year

Impressive Ceremony Is Conducted Here On Sunday Afternoon

One of the most impressive installation services ever held by the Order of Ahepa was that of Sunday afternoon when the officers for the coming year were inducted, with an unusually large crowd of members and friends in attendance. The service was held in the Ahepa hall on East Washington street.

The installing officer was Peter Katsafanos of Pittsburgh, Deputy Supreme Governor, with V. I. Chebithes, past supreme governor, in attendance as a special guest. Speaker Marousis was installed as president of the local chapter for the coming year, with the following officers also so installed: Vice president, David Pappas; Secretary, Anthony Askounes; treasurer, Gus Talagamis; Chaplain, Charles Freeman; captain of the guard, Nick Askounes; governors, Charles Freeman, William Leedes, John Borovilos, George Giakoumakis.

The chapter felt honored in having Mr. Chebithes present and his address was one of the finest ever delivered before this lodge. In it he spoke of the opportunities for service that were offered to Ahepans service not alone to the members, but the cause of Americanism.

Following the exercises, a dinner was held in the St. George Greek Orthodox church at the corner of East Reynolds and Agnew streets.

Legion Of Honor

To Meet Wednesday

Seven Arrested In Slaying Of Gunman

Six Men And Girl Held By Police For Alleged Slaying Of Gang Leader

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A one-armed man and an anonymous letter, followed by fast police work today had solved the mystery of the murder of Stephen Sweeney, the gang leader whose riddled corpse was found recently by aviators on a motor parkway.

At the same time, the police rounded up the gang that has held up more than 500 speakies and cordial shops in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx, in the last five months.

Six men and a girl were captured. The prisoners included most of the members of the gang that Sweeney led until he was killed December 21 on a hi-jacking expedition by his pals, police said.

Chief among the captives is Frederick Schoenhardt, the "Freddie" who ascended to leadership of the gang after Sweeney's passing. He is accused of the murder.

Harry McCormick, a lad of eighteen, joined him in killing Sweeney, police said McCormick claimed. McCormick was also charged with murder.

Both pleaded self-defense after making a confession of the killing. Police said McCormick claimed Sweeney was not taken for a ride, they protested, but was shot in a quarrel when he attempted to draw his revolver on Schoenhardt during the drive. But police Captain McVeigh asserted the killers plied Sweeney with drink, took away his gun, and killed him to settle a grudge and put Schoenhardt in command of the gang.

Suggestion Made To Scale Debts Incurred By War

Albert H. Wiggin, Chase National Bank Executive Offers Congress Suggestion

FEASIBILITY OF PLAN ATTACKED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Government officials and members of Congress viewed with tolerant amusement or outright hostility today the suggestion of Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the board of Chase National Bank, that now would be a propitious time to consider scaling down international war debts.

While treasury and other departmental officials merely smiled and said the question was up to Congress, they made it clear that there is little sympathy for the proposal in Washington.

Sentiment in Congress is almost wholly against any reduction in the allied indebtedness.

Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee, who was a member of the war debt funding commission, said emphatically, "I disagree with Mr. Wiggin. The best settlement obtainable in the Senate was made and I am opposed to any change."

Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, said:

"No, we can't do that. It would be most unwise at this time. Once started, there is no telling where it would end."

One of the few dissenters to the prevailing opinion was Senator King (D) of Utah, who said:

"Back in 1920 I proposed an international conference looking to all-around reduction of war debts. With the situation in Europe as unsatisfactory as it is now, it is even more important that something be done. With the fascists, monarchists and communists fighting for control in Germany, unless something is done there will be chaos in Europe again. It is only Hindenburg and men like Brüning who have been able to check the movement to turn Germany back to a monarchy."

START HEARINGS ON DISTRIBUTION OF $3200 REWARD

The News office and ordered The News sent to them during their stay in Arizona. The News began coming soon after they arrived in Phoenix.

Hague said that he first learned of the murder of Brady Paul through The News which arrived in Phoenix on January 1, 1936. He was more than ordinarily interested because he knew Brady Paul and had talked with him a short time before leaving New Castle. Later he received copies of The News containing the pictures of Glenn Dague, Irene Schroeder and her son, Donnie.

Compares Pictures After the capture of a man and woman concerned in a shooting in Arizona, Hague compared pictures of them published in the Phoenix Republican and came to the conclusion, that their names were Dague and Schroeder. He told his wife that he believed it was his duty to notify the sheriff that his prisoners were the murderers of Corporal Brady Paul. He did not go direct to the sheriff's office, but went up town and talked to the police. His daughter also called the Mayor's office and told the mayor of their suspicions. In response to the latter call a policeman and city detective came to the Kane home. He showed them a copy of The New Castle News containing the pictures. Hague later went to the county jail and told officials he wanted to see the prisoners. An order was given and he was taken into the jail. Twelve men were first stood up before him, and Hague looked them over. He failed to recognize Dague among them.

He then asked to see the women. When he entered the room where they were there was a woman sitting at a table with her head down. She refused to look up, although several commands were given. Finally she looked up and Hague says that he addressed her as Irene Schroeder. She denied that she was Irene. "Damn you, why do you call me Irene?" she snapped.

Confirms Irene "I told her that she had been having a mighty tough time, outlining her trip from Toledo to Butler, the robbery at that place and the final shooting of Brady Paul."

"She used more bad language, still denying that she was Irene." "I then told her that her little son, Donnie, was in good hands in New Castle. She started almost raised in her chair and looked at me. 'I told her that if I were in her place I would make a clean breast of the whole matter. I am right and you may as well confess.'"

ADD START HEARING "I then went outside with the officers. They said that I had surely got a good confession, by actions." Hague said that he was then taken to another part of the jail and as the door was opened 10 or 12 prisoners came forward. One of the deputies drew a gun and told them to stand up along the wall. Dague was not among them.

News Picture Features. Hague says that he was then taken to another part of the jail in which there were a number of prisoners. One of them was in chains. Hague recognized him from the picture in The News.

"I addressed him as Glenn Dague," said Hague.

He replied that he was not Glenn Dague.

"I told him that with all his whistles he could not fool me."

"I told him that it was a shame for him to leave his wife and two children and take up a life of crime with Irene. I also told him that his time had come."

"He wanted to know who I was but I told him it did not matter. I again expressed my confidence that he was Dague, but he denied it."

"I talked with him further and tears came into his eyes. I told him that the only thing for him to do was to confess the murder of Brady Paul. He denied the murder charge again and I told him he was lying, and that it was a shame."

"I was certain from the pictures published in The News that I was not mistaken."

Some Questions. Hague was represented at the hearing by Attorney William McElwee, who asked a number of questions. The county commissioners were represented by their solicitor John Lockhart. Mr. Lockhart asked a number of questions relative to the time when a copy of The News containing the pictures was given to the police. He also asked if Sheriff Wright had the copy, and if so, when he got it.

The question arose as to whether or not Sheriff Wright had a copy of The News containing the pictures at the time that Dague and Irene were captured in the mountains. Hague did not know.

Hague said that after he had shown the pictures and made the identifications he asked the authorities to notify District Attorney John Powers. The officers with whom he had talked, Hague says, were satisfied that he had identified the prisoners.

The hearing was adjourned until a later date in order that it may be ascertained just when Sheriff Wright came into possession of a copy of The News containing the pictures, or if he had one at all.

District Attorney John Powers is to be called to tell what he knows about the identification.

The claims which were presented by letter and telegraph were not taken up at the meeting today, but will be considered at the adjourned meeting, the date of which has not yet been fixed.

NEGRO IS SEIZED FROM SHERIFF BY MOB IN MISSOURI

recently to lynch the Negro had been repulsed by armed guards. Miss Colter was slain in her one room school house near here December 16. The Negro was arrested later and confessed the slaying. He was being taken to the courthouse for trial today when the mob seized him.

Take Him to Crime Scene According to a deputy sheriff who gave an eyewitness account of the mob's seizure of the Negro, the mob and there were taking him to the scene of the crime and were going to burn him up in the small frame school building.

"Sheriff England attempted to save the Negro but the crowd was so violent that the sheriff was injured and the Negro successfully spirited away," the deputy said.

Sheriff England was taken to his home and was confined in bed as the result of his injuries, the deputy said.

"When word got around that the Negro had been seized hell broke loose." The deputy said. "People poured out of the courtroom and from stores and homes. The streets around the courthouse were packed."

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Green Room.

The "green room" is one of the most appreciated, the most attractive and the most used departments of the local association. Hardly does a day go by that this prettily decorated dining room on the third floor is not used by Y. W. C. A. organizations, women's clubs, girls' clubs, civic organizations or for private parties.

Since last April this third floor club dining room has been in use, and the cafeteria department has served dinners and suppers to hundreds of people during that time. The exact number will be determined when the executive secretary issues the annual report.

During 1929, 25 different non-association groups used the Y. W. C. A. building, with an aggregate attendance of 5,297. This did not include the commercial groups who paid a regular rental charge.

Since the "green room" was arranged the number of people meeting at the association has undoubtedly increased.

Club Activities.

Senior Girl Reserves have scheduled an interest group meeting this evening. Senior girls will have a rally in the near future.

Franklin Girl Reserves will also devote some time to their hobbies this evening at their school building. The Franklin club has a number of plans for the future, although there are no definite dates set for them. There will be a sled party one of these days and a play soon, too.

A number of changes in the cabinets of all the school Girl Reserve clubs will be made next month, because of the mid-year graduation. The president of the senior club and several of the officers of the cabinet will graduate from high school.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

No Increase In Gas Tax Planned By Legislature

New State Highway Head Opposed To Increase In Road Revenues

HALTED PROPOSED INCREASE BEFORE

By WILLIAM E. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 12.—Though many controversial questions will face the Pennsylvania legislature when it reconvenes here January 19, to get down to business after its organization recess, an increased gasoline tax proposal will not be among them, leaders of the assembly agree.

During the present administration, raising of the gasoline tax proved a troublesome problem in both sessions of the legislature, especially in 1929 and the fight on the 4-cent gas tax bill was considered the high light of that session. In the preceding session the tax was increased from two to three cents with the provision that the third cent should be added only temporarily.

Decision of Governor John S. Fisher to make a new high road for road construction during his term of office was accompanied by the determination to make the three cent tax permanent and add an additional cent for at least a one year period.

Governor Fisher was convinced that the additional cent was necessary to follow the program he had in mind for the last two years of his administration. Organizations of automobile owners and thousands of individuals were just as determined they would submit to no more taxation, and legislators found themselves between the opposing forces and administration pressure and the voters back home.

Lewis enters battle. Then, into the fight, entered a factor on which legislative leaders now predict a paucity of legislation.

this session designed to increase gasoline taxes.

The factor was the active drive begun by Samuel S. Lewis, of York, then state treasurer and named to be Secretary of Highways in the new cabinet, to block at every turn the governor's plan for a tax increase. With every force and figure at his command, Lewis attempted to show that additional revenue for the Department of Highways was unnecessary.

So voluminous were the statistical exhibits he marshalled to support his arguments that the Senate roads committee granted a special hearing at which he was asked to present his views. After listening closely to Lewis' arguments, Senate opponents of the measure could muster only 12 votes against the bill. In the House, 73 members had previously voted against it. In both houses, the major opposition against an administration had been recorded.

Lewis always has contended that many phases of highway construction and financing were badly managed. He will now have an opportunity to put his theories into practice, legislative leaders hold, and they believe it would be difficult for him to reverse completely his arguments of several years and go before the legislature as favoring increased highway revenue from any source.

In addition, Governor-elect Gifford Pinchot asserted repeatedly during his campaign that in increase in the gasoline tax is unnecessary. He promised also to reduce the fees for automobile registration and for drivers' licenses.

Without administration pressure, it is doubted that any member of the legislature would sponsor, let alone actively support, a measure always so unpopular with the great majority of motor owners.

Members of the general assembly, who believe they face trouble making measures enough, are relieved to think that the question of an increased gasoline tax is not one of them.

Held For Robbery At West Middlesex

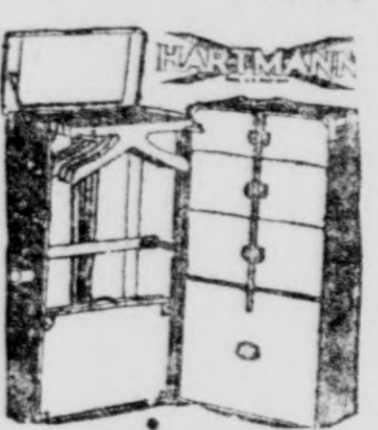

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 12.—Hudson Mackey, Madison street, and Paul Gruver, West Middlesex, were taken to the county jail late Saturday afternoon they were held for court by Alderman Henry G. Thomas on charges of breaking and entering and larceny. Mrs. Estelle Mackey, wife of Hudson, was released when arraigned on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Mackey, who already was in jail awaiting trial for robbing the E. E. Tribby hardware store at West Middlesex the night of November 23, last, Gruver, arrested in connection with the same case, pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $1,000 each and neither could furnish the amount.

FIREMEN PROPOSE FIRST AID STATIONS

(International News Service) MECHANICSBURG, Pa., Jan. 12.—First aid stations would be established along highways in Cumberland county under a plan proposed by the Cumberland County Firemen's Association here. Establishment of the stations would aid in fighting fires in rural sections, it is believed, and would prove a boon to firemen injured in the course of duty.

Daughter Of Commoner Pennsylvanians Speaks Here February 5 Few At Capitol

MRS. RUTH BRYAN OWEN

Under the auspices of the local chapter of the P. E. O. Sisterhood, Ruth Bryan Owen, congresswoman and daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, will make an address in the Senior High School auditorium on Thursday, February 5. Because the memory of her illustrious father is fresh in the minds of millions, her actions in Washington are observed with close attention and, because she is a woman, such interest is naturally enhanced.

Ruth Bryan was born in Jacksonville, Ill. Her education was procured in the public schools, at Monticello Seminary and the University of Nebraska. Incidentally, in 1927 she received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Florida's oldest institution of learning, Rollins College, and for several terms she has been head of the department of public speaking in the University of Miami, of which for three years she has been vice-chairman of the Board of Regents.

In lieu of pay for her services on the faculty she accepts scholarships which she awards as prizes to youths preparing the best essays on citizenship. Mrs. Owen is the widow of Major Reginald Owen of the Royal Engineers, British Army. She has four children: Ruth, John Bryan, Reginald Bryan, and Helen Rudd; and a granddaughter. She was for ten years a Lyceum and Chautauqua lecturer. During the war she served as a nurse with a volunteer aid detachment, of the British Army, in the Egypt-Palestine campaign.

When she let it be known that she wanted to come to Congress the Floridians saw what a valuable advertisement she would be for the state, and kept a seventh term man home to send her. She is a member of P. E. O. National Council of Women, League of American Penwomen, Business and Professional Women's Club, D. A. R., Women's Overseas League, National Council for Child Welfare, Delta Gamma, Chi Delta Phi, Parents-Teachers Association, a Democrat, and an Episcopalian.

"I love my state until it hurts," she once told a newspaper man. She proved it by streaming through the capital with forty-seven children from back home at her heels, brought up at her own expense to make them Washington-conscious. Her gray-green eyes grow dewy when she speaks of "my farmers" and "my fishermen." "I can have no better vacation," she said when congress adjourned, "than to go home and work for my people."

Mrs. Owen will speak on the subject "Modern American Knights." The P. E. O. Sisterhood feels that it is particularly fortunate in being able to offer Mrs. Owen to the people of New Castle, and also that the city will do itself an honor in entertaining the daughter of the Great Commoner.

mixtures and a large quantity of ginger bark and other ingredients for the manufacture of "bitters." Judge Campbell admitted that Dr. Owen was acting within his legal rights by keeping a stock of liquors, but he held that none of it could be sold as a beverage. Three samples of "hot dogs" submitted as evidence, tested 74 per cent alcohol, according to chemists. Three men testified that they had bought liquor at Kitchen's drug store without presenting a physician's prescription. This was denied by Dr. Kitchen at the trial. He was directed to appear in court next Saturday for sentence.

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 12.—Judge James O. Campbell has denied a new trial to Dr. Harrison R. Kitchen, physician and pharmacist in Lawrence for a score of years, following his conviction on charges of selling intoxicating liquors illegally. Three inspectors from the bureau of industrial alcohol of the United States treasury department testified that they found on June 19 and 25 last year that Dr. Kitchen had a total of 3,049 bottles of liquor of various Shaffer of Schenley avenue, New Castle, reported to the police Sunday that while his car was parked in front of 317 Eddy street, that some unknown person had stolen about $3 worth of groceries from his machine. He discovered the theft when he went to get his machine shortly after midnight Saturday.

State Has Less Employed In Civil Service Jobs Than They Are Entitled To

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent of the New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 12.—The present discrepancy between the number of civil service appointments to departmental jobs in Washington to which Pennsylvania is entitled and the number it has actually received would be lessened under a bill introduced in Congress by Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama.

There are at present a total of 37,862 civil service jobs that are subject to apportionment between the states, and under the civil service laws Pennsylvania residents are entitled to 3,073 of these places, this number being determined by Pennsylvania's share of the entire population.

On the first of this year, however, Pennsylvania was represented by only 2,130 of its residents in government positions coming under the apportionment, the State thus having approximately thirty-one per cent fewer jobs than it is entitled to receive. One Pennsylvania employee was added during the last six weeks of 1930, although the state's quota was reduced by five due to a slight cut in the total force. Pennsylvania now ranks 32nd among all the states in acreage in this respect.

Under the terms of Senator Heflin's bill, ex-service men and women and permanent civil service employees who are residents of states whose quotas are in arrears and who have been discharged in recent years because of reductions of force shall be restored to duty, and necessary reductions shall be made of residents of the District of Columbia, Virginia, and Maryland, whose appointments are far in excess of their quotas.

Auto Accidents Are Reported To Police

Machines In Collisions Are Damaged To Some Extent In Crashes

H. J. Hunter, 801 West Washington street, reported to the police Saturday that he was enroute east on West Washington street and making a left turn onto North Beaver street, as a car bearing Pennsylvania license 73R21 was enroute in the same direction to his rear.

The latter machine went to the left of the Hunter car as it was making the turn and snubbed and damaged the front fender of his machine. This machine did not stop and was travelling at an excessive rate of speed, according to Mr. Hunter.

William F. Kennedy, 104 South Ray street, reported Saturday that he was enroute south on Highland avenue at East Falls street, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 3886L enroute north on Mill street, made a left hand turn onto Falls street in front of the Kennedy machine and the machines came together and were damaged.

Charles B. Tyler, of 1117 West Washington street, reported Saturday that he was enroute west on West Washington street at the diamond and in front of the Pennsylvania-Ohio Electric building, as a car bearing Pennsylvania license 3707C was enroute in the same direction and following the Tyler car.

A machine was coming south on Cochran Way and Mr. Tyler stopped to give it the right of way and damaged the rear of his machine.

Funeral Service For Auto Victim

BEAVER FALLS, Jan. 12.—Funeral services of John Goehring, 84 retired farmer of Marion township killed Saturday when run down by an automobile driven by Benet R. Stueff, life-long friend and neighbor, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Burry's Church, New Sewickley township. Goehring had just alighted from a Harmony route street car, after a visit to Ellwood City. Stueff was backing his car and did not see Goehring. The car passed over Goehring's chest. He died a few minutes later. Coroner Harry C. McCarter gave a certificate of accidental death.

State Bodies Agree On Water Power Policies

Pennsylvania Chambers Of Commerce Approve Recommendations Of Committee

VOTE CLOSER THAN COUNTRY AT LARGE

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 12.—In keeping with the decisive vote by which the organization membership of the United States Chamber of Commerce throughout the country approved in a referendum all of the fifteen recommendations made by a special committee as the basis for a nation water-power policy, the Pennsylvania commercial organizations and trade associations enrolled in the Chamber membership likewise expressed enthusiastic and in most cases almost unanimous approval of the proposed policy, according to the returns for the State made public today.

However, on three of the fifteen questions that made up the Chamber's referendum, the Pennsylvania vote was far closer than that recorded for the country at large. On one question, proposing an increase of federal and state appropriations for the collection and publication of data relating to water resources, the national vote stood at about five to one, whereas the Pennsylvania chamber members voted 142 to 72. On the question declaring that state commissions should be authorized to initiate proceedings in which they may exercise their regulatory powers, including proceedings as to disparities in domestic rates, the country's affirmative vote was approximately at the rate of fifteen to one; on this issue, Pennsylvania stood at 178 to 46.

Overwhelmingly Affirmative
Although the national vote on recommendation eight, proposing that the regulation of interstate power be left to the concurrent action of state agencies and should be turned over to the federal government only in cases of disagreement, was the closest of all fifteen—2,157 to 679—Pennsylvania's vote was even closer, 112 to 103.

All the other questions found the Keystone State overwhelmingly affirmative. On recommendation 15—that the Muscle Shoals project should be sold or leased as is, on the best possible terms—the committee stand was approved by a vote that was almost unanimous in the country at large, and Pennsylvania reported 218 for and only four against.

The most important other recommendations, which the Chamber membership both in Pennsylvania and throughout the country wholeheartedly approved, and the Pennsylvania votes on these issues, are as follows:

That the federal government should leave to the states all possible control over utilization of water resources within the states, 223 to 1.

That the states should use compacts among themselves for determination of their respective rights in boundary and interstate streams, 222 to 2.

That municipally operated utilities should be subject to the same regulation as privately operated utilities, 219 to 5.

That development and distribution of electric power is within the proper sphere of private enterprise, 219 to 4.

Against Government Building
That the federal government should leave the construction of dams and other structures and the generation of power to other agencies, except where they are an essential part of national or international projects that cannot be successfully carried out by other agencies, 219 to 5.

That the federal government should always leave the transmission and distribution of power to other agencies, 219 to 5.

Almost 70 per cent of the Chamber's member organizations voted on the referendum, each organization being allowed one vote for its first 224 individual members and one vote for every additional 200 members. No commercial organization and trade associations which are enrolled in the national Chamber are permitted more than ten votes, regardless of size.

Notice

Lawrence County Coon Hunters' association will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, January 16, at 8:00 p. m. Officers for 1931 will be elected.

By Central Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A holiday greeting card from out-of-town bankers to friends in Wall Street is being passed round with varied comment. The card includes a reprint of a photograph of the present site of the bank in Richmond, Va., as it appeared Christmas day, 1865, after the northern armies had bombarded the city. And under the picture is the following line:

"If you think there's a depression today, look at this!"

DOWN THE STREET
A painstaking perusal of first-of-the-year business surveys by local financial, commercial and industrial Bigwigs prompts admiration of the clever way The Boys soft-pedal Unpleasant Facts. Their jargon fits any situation.

Instead of talking about an "industrial slump" they speak of a "contraction of industrial activity." When they want to tell you that a certain security has dropped 40 points, they speak of its "curtailed price," or its "price recession." Any security smash is a "departure." They vary this sometimes by referring to it as a "drastic readjustment."

When a security goes loco, looms the loop a few times and settles into a tail spin, they say it is undergoing a "corrective trend," or that it has encountered "retardation."

And what you and I would call a "run" on a bank, they term a "liquidity complex."

EMINENTLY CORRECT
One of The Lads, after hemming and hawing with a ponderosity of pomposity, for a column and a half, winds up by saying he feels that "the vast bulk of necessary deflation has now been accomplished."

With nearly 500 of the securities that are traded in on the Big Board selling below $25 a share, it appears that the Worthington Brother is eminently correct.

In Wall Street the word "deflation" is used in its broader sense. It's like applying the red-hot portion of a Corona-Corona to the business end of a balloon and then remarking:

"See! Baby's balloon is deflated."

Mr. Jimmy Speyer says:

"Work and save!"

If Jimmy had drifted into Broadway, instead of Wall Street, he'd have Jimmy Durant backed up into a corner, yelling for ice water.

OPTIMISTS
Rising to his full height, and brushing the crumbs from his lap, Bob Lamont hurls at the diners the following baritone remark:

"We have reached a point where a beginning of recovery may reasonably be expected."

That's all the encouragement Brother Hawley, chairman of the house committee on ways and means, needed.

"Business, generally," purred Br'er Hawley, "is taking a firmer tone."

After that everybody got up, one by one, and swelled the Hallelujah Chorus. Even old Amos Woodcock, who bawled the glad tidings that he looked for a "marked improvement in prohibition enforcement during the new year."

COMPLETING THE FORECAST
In the excitement of getting to press some few stray prognostications were unintentionally omitted from the Grand Symposium. There are here given:

"Legs" Diamond: "We are well along toward recovery."

Joe Healey (street sweeper): "We'll keep pushing along."

Mike Levy (dum cart chauffeur): "The upturn is at hand."

Chichester Jones (griddle attendant at Childs): "I look for a swift and continued turn."

Dillingham Esposito (scissors grinder): "The dull period is over. There will be a sharp reaction."

"Mile-High" Higgins (bootlegger): "I look for further liquidation."

Percy Piazza (cashier in the automobile): "The change is here."

Canada Gains By Immigration

More Aliens Enter There Than Come Into United States From Canada

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 12.—Nearly 3,000 more Canadians and immigrants entered Canada during the first ten months of 1930 than entered the United States from Canada, according to announcement by the department of state.

Statistics for the ten months of the calendar year of 1930 indicate that 50,558 emigrants and Canadians returning to Canada left the United States during this period, as compared with only 47,661 immigrants and American citizens entering the United States from Canada. These figures indicate that Canada received 2,897 more persons from the United States during the ten months than entered this country from Canada.

May proved to witness the greatest immigration into Canada from the United States of the ten months, when 6,788 immigrants and Canadians went from this country to Canada. September witnessed the greatest flow from Canada into the United States, 6,064 Americans and immigrants passing southward across the boundary line into this country during that month.

Officer Finds Ladder Placed At Store Window

Window Is Found Intact And Nothing Of Value Has Been Reported Missing

Officer Robert Hanna of the city police force on making his rounds Sunday morning at 4:20 a. m., found a ladder placed up to a rear window of the North Mill street section of the W. J. Offutt Company store. He advised police headquarters at once.

Officers Lockard, Dukes and Criswell joined Officer Hanna in the investigation. It was found that the windows to which the ladder had been placed was intact and had not been forced. Officer Hanna was positive that the ladder had not been there, when he made his rounds at 2 a. m.

Owners of the store were notified and have so far made no report of any indicated robbery.

Stolen Car Wrecked Outside This City

Fire That Followed Wrecking Of Machine Completely Destroys It

Mary Levine, 1011 Highland avenue, notified the police at 11:45 o'clock Saturday night that his Packard Coupe had been stolen from in front of a Winter avenue home where it had been parked.

Shortly after two o'clock Sunday morning, the police authorities were notified by Constable William Edwards of Hillville, that the car reported stolen had been wrecked when it hit a tree at the top of a steep hill between Edenburg and Hillville and that it had been completely destroyed by a fire that followed the wrecking of the machine.

The local police notified the owner.

Complete Unit Of Masonic Hospital

(International News Service)
ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa., Jan. 12.—Completion of the first unit of the Philadelphia Memorial Hospital of the Pennsylvania State Masonic Homes for Free and Accepted Masons here has been promised by March 1, 1931, it was announced after a conference of contractors and officials of the fraternal organization.

The unit, to cost $125,000, will provide hospital facilities for approximately 100 more patients.

THERE is no news at the Motor Shows of comparable importance to this announcement by Studebaker—Free Wheeling with positive gear control is now yours in Studebaker's brilliant new Six.

The two finest cars in America have now adopted Free Wheeling as first introduced in Studebaker Eights on July 10, 1930. And today this same epochal engineering achievement is yours in a new Studebaker Six at a new low price.

No proof of Studebaker leadership could be more convincing than this extension of the advantages of Free Wheeling to the entire Studebaker line.

Free Wheeling with positive gear control is widely acclaimed as the most important advance in automotive engineering since the electric starter. It gives you today in this new Studebaker Six what all cars must offer tomorrow.

Experience the marvel of Free Wheeling for yourself in this big 114-inch wheelbase Studebaker Six. It harnesses momentum and puts it to work—allows the engine to "rest" two miles out of every ten—insures an actual saving of 12% to 20% in gasoline and oil.

You drive as in a conventional car. Yet you need not use the clutch at all in making your most important shifts—from second to high or from high back to second. You make these shifts easily, silently, at any speed. The full braking power of the engine is instantly available.

Take nobody's word for Free Wheeling. See this new Studebaker Six—drive it. It is backed by Studebaker's 79 years of manufacturing success and integrity.

Chicago Gangster Severely Wounded

Police Seek Two Gunmen Who Attempted To Slay Gangster

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—James Belcastro, the fourth victim in as many days to fall before gang guns, hovered close to death today as police sought the identities of two assailants who emptied their revolvers into his body.

Belcastro, one of the 26 public enemies named by the Chicago crime commission and known to police as a Capone gangster, fell with six bullet wounds last night as he was about to step into his automobile.

The two gunmen were waiting for their victim when he stepped from the home of his brother-in-law Rocco Fanelli. Fanelli likewise is a public enemy. The men opened fire as Belcastro was about to step into his automobile. Witnesses saw the gunmen flee on foot.

Belcastro was known to police as the "bombling king."

Teachers To Meet At Los Angeles

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 12.—More teachers than Little Willie ever thought there could be will assemble in Los Angeles next summer to attend the annual convention of the National Education association.

Dr. Willis A. Suttan, president of the association, here to arrange the convention, said that 50,000 teachers had notified his office of their intention to attend the session June 27 to July 4.

California has 23,000 of the 225,000 members of the National Education association.

CROTON CHURCH HAS BIG DAY
An unusual development in attendance at the Sabbath school session of the Croton Avenue Methodist church turned up Sunday morning when there were more present than were enrolled. This was encouraging to the officers of the Sunday school.

The young peoples meeting was well attended in the evening also. At the evening service there was a crowded auditorium to hear Rev. C. S. Joshua give his sermon on "The Prodigal Son," which had been a request sermon.

The melodious voices of George Anthony and Harry Evans were greatly appreciated by the congregation, as they were heard in solo numbers and especially pleasing was their duet, "Watchmen, What of the Night."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The kind heart of an aged man reached down in Birmingham, Ala., today to bring back a 17 year old orphaned boy to adopt as his own, and to share his possessions when death causes him to close his watch and clock curiosity shop here.

Edward Frischnecht, 73, is the man. Charles Ashley is the boy. And Mrs. Martha Shank is the woman who played an important part in cultivating the affection in the old man's heart for the boy by experiencing the loss of a pocketbook and having it returned, the contents untouched, by Ashley.

Ashley was employed by the watch repairer in November but quit a few weeks ago to return to Birmingham, to seek work and study at night

Nathan Straus Taken By Death

Beloved Leader Of American Jewry And Noted Philanthropist Dies

SIMPLE BURIAL PLANNED TUESDAY

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—From all walks of life today tribute was paid to the memory of Nathan Straus. The beloved leader of American Jewry died peacefully here Sunday in his hotel suite. He would have been 83 on January 31.

The noted gift giver and benefactor of all creeds had been ill since last spring, when his wife died. He had been in a coma for the 24 hours before his death. At the bedside when the end came were his son, Nathan Jr., a daughter, Mrs. Irving Lehman, wife of a court of appeals judge, and Dr. Leopold Stieglitz, Straus's physician and intimate friend.

Dr. Stieglitz gave the cause of death as heart disease and high blood pressure.

Simple Ceremony
According to the philanthropist's last wishes, his funeral services will be devoid of display. They will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Temple Emanuel. There will be no flowers.

The formal eulogy will be omitted and in its place Professor William Lyons Phelps of Yale University will give a brief sketch of Straus's life. Burial will be in the family vault at Cypress Hills, Queens, New York.

The honorary pallbearers will be Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of New York University, Arthur Brisbane, Jacob Billikopf, Adrian La Forge, John A. Holmer, Adolph S. Ochs, William Lyon Phelps, George Foster Peabody, Judge Julian W. Mack, John D. Rockefeller Jr., Simon P. Rothschild, Julius Rosenfeld, Felix M. Warburg, Mayor James J. Walker, Max J. Kohler, Dr. Leopold Stieglitz, Dr. E. M. Bluestone, Benny Leonard, Samuel Strauss and Dr. David De Sola Pool.

Praised in London
London, Jan. 12.—High tribute to the memory of Nathan Straus, New York philanthropist, who died Sunday, was paid today by London newspapers.

It was recalled how, at his own expense, Straus saved hundreds of lives in England and Ireland by operating at his own expense plants for the pasteurization of milk. His lavish gifts for Palestine relief work were also prominently enumerated.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Never Use Hair Brush In Spanking

Dr. Myers Repeats His Statements On Punishment

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.,
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

"My Dear Mr. Myers: Your articles have always been of interest to me, as I am the mother of a five-year-old daughter, but after reading your reply to the woman from Oneida who gives her four-year-old daughter '15 or 20 good, hard strokes with a heavy hair brush,' I have lost confidence in your methods and your judgment."

"My small daughter is exceedingly well behaved, but not because she has been cowed by fear. She has never been spanked yet. I seldom have to speak twice to have her obey me. Kindness, trust and a little patience will accomplish more with a child than the brutal treatment of this woman from Oneida. There are many such brutes in the world who have helpless children entrusted to their care, and for the sake of these pathetic little folk, you should have condemned this woman's form of punishment instead of passing on it in the mild and cowardly way that you did. Do you not realize the injury both physical and mental, that such a brutal form of beating might inflict upon a child of tender years?"

"I wish it were possible for some man, as much stronger than this woman as she is than her little girl, to tie her to a whipping post or strap her over a barrel and give her from 75 to 100 good, hard strokes with a heavy hair brush on her 'bare bottom' as she vulgarly expresses herself."

"I hope that you will be fair enough to publish this letter and comment upon it."

Good mother, you could not have read carefully what I said. Here it is:

"I believe the hair brush is not a safe spanking device. . . . If I were you I should not use the hair brush. Pretty soon you ought to be able to abandon physical pain entirely."

I really don't believe I should enjoy seeing your proposed treatment of the mother you condemn. Perhaps a little kindness used on her would persuade her to be more humane.

I must confess, however, that when a mother lets a four-year-old child go into her neighbor's home, mar the furniture deliberately, tear the books and destroy other things therein, or lets the child run and play in the dangerous street, and mutilate the flowers and shrubbery of the neighborhood, she makes me wish I had the power of administering to that parent some severe punishment.

Parents who have never taught their children reasonable restraints and regard for others' rights are themselves in need of discipline. I'm for teaching the child early some definite inhibitions, with as little pain to him as possible.

Let me repeat that I would not advise the use of the hair brush to punish a child of any age. We have never used anything but our palms for paddling our own children, used them rarely, and have wholly abandoned physical punishment long before the school age.

I am sorry to have to admit that I personally have not had much need of a hair brush for any purpose for a number of years. You just don't know how sensitive I am about this matter, particularly when I must sit in a draught.

Japanese Train Topples In River; Many Are Killed

Engine And Five Coaches
Plunge Into River—Death Toll Is Undetermined

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Many persons were killed today when the Tokio-Shimonoseki express plunged off the rails and into a river at Hiroshimaken, according to Exchange Telegraph dispatches from Tokio.

A number of bodies have been recovered, but the death toll has not as yet been estimated.

The engine and five coaches dropped into the river.

The storm which has ravaged Japan for several days continued unabated, demoralizing shipping and disrupting communications. Many casualties have been reported throughout the country.

B. AND O. HEAD PASSES THROUGH

President Daniel Willard of the B and O railroad passed through New Castle Saturday enroute from Baltimore to Chicago. Mr. Willard did not stop off, having important business to attend to in the Windy City.

She thought:

"Nice of you to ask me, but your well-known 'B. O.' would spoil the picture for me."

Yet, to be polite, She said:
"Oh let's not go tonight. I've heard the picture isn't very interesting."

Tried hard to win her... but 'B. O.' defeated his efforts until—

(Body Odor)

IF THEY met by chance, she was friendly and pleasant. But she didn't invite him to call. And she consistently turned down his invitations to the movies. She who loved pictures!

Then one day he learned the reason—learned the easy way to end "B. O.", the polite term for body odor. Now his invitations were gladly accepted—he stands high in her favor. "B. O.", the fatal handicap, is no longer his.

"B. O." is treacherous!

We don't know when we're guilty, for we quickly become used to an ever-present odor and never notice "B. O." in ourselves. But pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste daily—even in cool weather. It's foolish just to trust to luck. Adopt Lifebuoy and be sure of not offending.

Lifebuoy gives quantities of rich, creamy lather—even in cold or hard water. This mildly antiseptic lather penetrates and purifies pores—removes all odor. Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you "No more 'B. O.' now!"

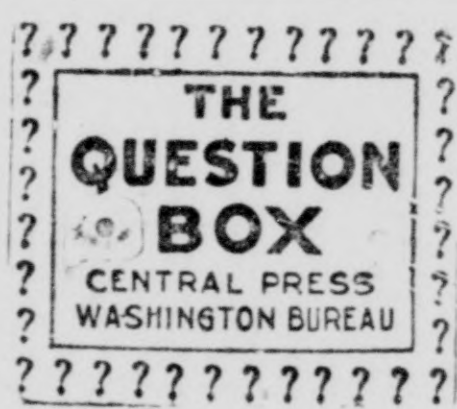

Makes complexions bloom

Lifebuoy's bland, creamy lather is kind to your complexion. Work it well into the pores at night—see how quickly dull skins freshen, healthy radiance returns. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

What is the policy of the U. S. government in regard to the finding of buried treasures and what percentage of the total does it demand? Though there are dicta to the effect that the common law as to treasure-trove applies in the United States (original common law in England held buried treasure belonged to the crown) such a right is seldom, if ever, enforced. The present policy of the English government is to allow a finder to keep treasure thus discovered, less a small percentage of its value to be paid to the crown, unless it is valuable as an object of historical or antiquarian interest, in which cases, it is claimed by the crown in order to be preserved in the national museums. By the treasure-trove act of India, if no owner is found, the finder is entitled to three-quarters and the owner of the ground to one quarter of its value.

Which president of the United States was called the "Little Magician," and why?
"Little Magician" was a nickname of President Martin Van Buren, given because of his skill in politics.

How did the expression "The Four Hundred" referring to the elite of society originate?
A chance remark of one of New York's most conspicuous leaders of society, Ward McAllister (1830-95), that New York's "smart" society comprised only 400 persons, was the origin of the term "The Four Hundred."

Radio Industry Shows Good Report For 1930

Retail Sales Of Radio Sets And Equipment Reaches $500,000,000

Falls Short Of Record For 1929, But Is Good Despite Business Depression

By ROBERT S. THORNBURG
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Retail sales of radio sets and equipment probably exceeded $500,000,000 during 1930 in spite of the business depression. Band leaders, executive heads of the radio manufacturers association said today.

This was a sharp reduction from the $835,000,000 value of the sale of radio products in 1929, but manufacturers during the year materially reduced their excessive inventories and are prepared to go into the new year with most sections of the industry in fairly favorable positions.

In January, 1930, there were very large stocks of radio sets on hand. The result was a series of bargain sales during the year at which receivers were disposed of at greatly cut prices. It was not anticipated there would be much of the bargain stuff this year.

Four Million Sets
About 4,000,000 radio sets were sold during 1929. Figures are not yet available for 1930, but sales fell below the 1929 valuation. A development of the year was the larger number of so-called midrange sets produced which may bring the actual number to about that of the year before.

It is anticipated that during 1931 sales of radio sets will be about 4,000,000.

Hunters Urged To Make Return Of Game Killed

May Have Licenses Refused Next Fall If They Fail To Comply With Law

(International News Service)

Deputy Game Commissioner Frank Coen issued an appeal to hunters today, urging them to make a return of the amount of game killed during the hunting season last fall.

According to information sent Mr. Coen from the State Game Commission, fewer hunters from Lawrence county have complied with the law, than any other county in the state.

The information is necessary for re-stocking purposes, as the game commission has no way of determining the amount of game shot off unless the hunters make a report.

In the back of each hunting license issued is a slip for this purpose, and hunters to hunt up their tag, and return it to the game commission.

If they do not make a return, they may have difficulty in securing a license next fall, he states.

4000 Impostors Seeking Honors

Only 19 Of 38 Americans In Lafayette Escadrille Are Still Alive

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Survivors of the famed Lafayette Escadrille, a unit of the French army air force which won fame and glory and brought down 53 German planes for which official credit was given and many more behind the German lines, are worried as to what to do about 4000 impostors.

Promoted to finish there were 38 American volunteers in the Lafayette Escadrille, and only 19 of them are alive today. Yet the Escadrille has its records more than 4000 cases of men who have posed as members of the famous air squadron.

After the United States entered the war, so many Americans were anxious to fly under the insignia of the Indian head, the mark of the Lafayette Escadrille, that the French government grouped them into a Lafayette flying corps, which was distinct from the Escadrille.

There were 189 volunteers in the flying corps, including the 38 of the Escadrille. The flying corps proved a gallant unit, with 199 official victories to its credit.

Dr. J. Alvin Orr Begins Services

Dr. J. Alvin Orr, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church of the North Side Pittsburgh, who is noted as a minister of forceful pulpit presence and great oratory and famed for his messages over KDKA, will be the speaker this evening in the Third United Presbyterian church and will be speaking this week at 7:30.

About five years ago Dr. Orr spoke in the city and the church auditorium was not large enough to hold the audience that wished to hear him, but the Third church auditorium is now a larger room and it is hoped all those wishing to hear this famed speaker will be able to get in.

'Divining Rod' Finding Water On Dry Farms

Young Pennsylvanian Meeting With Much Success In Finding Streams By Use Of Apple Twig

PENNSBURG, Pa., Jan. 12.—Science claims no basis for the popular belief that underground water, oil, mineral deposits and hidden treasures can be located by means of a forked twig carried over the surface in a certain manner.

Yet a young Pennsylvania has used this method of locating water in this section of the upper Potomac Valley and claims that his system has never once failed him.

John J. Rothmund, 25, of Finland, several miles east of here, has taken time to help out his neighbors in Montgomery and Bucks counties in the water shortage resulting from the summer's drought. He has located water for 12 since fall.

The method used has been frequently referred to as the divining rod system, and, although its use dates back to the fifteenth century, belief in it has pretty generally died out. Farmers who followed Rothmund's instructions in drilling for water declare the system works, and that Rothmund has in each case delivered the goods. In addition to telling farmers where they will find water, he estimates the depth to which drilling must proceed to find water.

Rothmund's divining rod is a twig of an apple tree. The only requirement, he says, is that the twig must have grown within the year. He holds the ends of the twig in a definite gripping manner and walks about the farm or plot where he hopes to locate water. When he gets to such a spot, he says, the twig starts turning, and then he knows he has located underground water. He then estimates the depth of this stream.

Rothmund has made the water finding a pastime and has never made a charge for his services. He says he learned the principles of the divining rod from his brother-in-law, Morris Wonsit, with whom he resides. The system has been handed down to Wonsit for several generations of his family.

McKeesport Woman Reported Kidnaped

Police Hunt For Three Men Believed To Have Kidnaped Woman From Street

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Jan. 12.—Police today were seeking three unidentified men who kidnaped Mrs. Mary Susan, 22, of McKeesport when her husband entered a restaurant to purchase one of the men a sandwich. According to Peter Susan, the husband, the three men followed them along Grant street shortly before midnight last night. One of the strangers, Susan told police, approached him with a request for money to purchase food. Susan offered the man a quarter, he told police, but the stranger suggested that he go into a nearby restaurant and buy him a sandwich.

Susan said his wife remained on the street with the man who at the time was separated from his two companions. When he returned with the sandwich his wife and the three men had disappeared, he told police.

According to Susan, the couple were returning from a Bible conference and were proceeding to a street-car stop when his wife was kidnaped.

"Crime Ring" In New York Probed

Activities Of Alleged Big "Crime Ring" In New York City Investigated

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Existence of a "crime ring" as well as a "vice ring" in the magistrates' court was being investigated by Attorney Isidor Kresel, prosecutor in the appellate division's inquiry, today.

While agents of the "vice ring" were engaged in "framing" and "railroading" innocent women and young girls to jail, it was charged, agents of the "crime ring" were equally busy—getting known gangsters, gunmen and other criminals out of prison.

The "crime ring" has for weeks been the subject of intensive undercover inquiry by Kresel's investigators, it was understood.

Today, Kresel himself was to question a man, brought especially to his office from the Toms.

This man, it was stated, would be Herman Rothenberg, according to the police at one time head of the notorious "Rothenberg Gang" of silk thieves, whose record shows 11 arrests and 3 convictions, and a list of 27 postponements on an indictment in 1925.

Chases Around For Fire Behind Him

(International News Service) NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Jan. 12.—Jim Hewitt is a substitute fireman and goes to all the fires he can, mostly on the apparatus. Jim was in a store near his fire station when an alarm came, so Jim ran around the block to catch the apparatus which roared toward him and drew up in front of the very store from which Jim had started. The fire was there all right, behind a partition against which he had been standing, and a clerk had gone out the back door to turn in an alarm.

Dear Brother Lion:—
One of the important industries of New Castle is that of the manufacture of cement.

Mr. R. E. Long, district sales manager of the Lehigh Portland Cement company, will tell us something about this product. His subject will be "In Your World of Construction."

Very truly yours,

Pile Sufferers End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel weak—weak parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 968 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation until you have tried HEM-ROID. New Castle Drug Co., or Eckard's of New Castle, Inc., will supply you and guarantee you a cure. If it does not end all Pile misery.

EVERY DAY WORTH LIVING

There is no illness so oppressive as an imperfectly functioning stomach. It is many cases to be confining, and severe enough to prevent the full enjoyment of every day of life and the pleasure of performing usual daily duties. To those persons who have habitual or occasional stomach trouble, such as gastric hyperacidity, sour stomach, gas, distension, bloating, belching, heartburn, bad breath (halitosis), loss of appetite, we unhesitatingly say "Try Frantz's Tablets." To our personal knowledge, this remedy has relieved and corrected hundreds of such cases. We shall be glad to give further information, and, of course, without obligation.

ABE MARTIN

On Murdering

WAX REPRODUCTIONS OF OLE TIME PUBLIC ENEMIES

"Jest a couple o' C head murderers," said Tilford Moots, when his wife asked him if ther wuz any news in the paper. Murders hasn't regarded as news these days any more'n a railroad time table. We don't pick up a paper to see if ther's been any murders. We pick it up to see if we know anybody among those murdered. "Well, his family ought to be glad he wuzn' all shot up an' murdered," said Jake Bentley when he heard Mort Purviance died o' pneumonia. "You're in fine shape an' should die a natural death if you keep your house locked an' stay out o' banks," said Dr. Moppis, to Tipton Bud, sixty-five, today. All the killin' hasn't been done by bandits. Husbands an' wives are doin' quite a bit o' murderin', kiltin' each other out o' the way to take another flyer at matrimony, or clean up some life insurance money. In the ole days ever big city used to have a "chamber o' horrors," a gallery o' famous murderers and murderers, life size reproductions in wax o' nationally advertised slayers, often in ghastly settin's. Today the steel mills o' Gary with acres o' buildin's couldn't accommodate wax figures of 1-10 o' the arch fiends who'er awaitin' trial, or out on parole, out on bond, or followin' ther profession. An' ther's no greedier or more unfeelin' set o' mortals than bandits. Stew Nugent, parole pendin' used to clean up from eight to ten wint watches an' vantages in one evenin'. Five bandits got something like $57,000, or more'n $11,000 each, in one haul at Frankfort, Indiana, an' instead o' buyin' some nice clothes an' goin' to Florida or the West Indies, they hardly took a breathin' spell till they swooped down on Clinton, Indiana, an' got shot up an' captured flem' with $15,000, when they already had all the money they needed. I don't see how bandits kin git any thrill out o' gittin' shot in the hip an' draggin' enselves thro' muddy corn fields an' livin' on frozen punkins, an' takin' chances on pneumonia with ther hip pockets bulgin' with money an' not a doctor within fourteen miles. With $11,000 a bandit could git probed an' sewed up an' raise a mustach, an' git some fifty clothes an' go to La Rue, O., or some place, an' open a hamburger shop. An' if he wanted to live a still cleaner life he could go in some other business. So banditin' can't be laid to the hard times. But isn't it a sad commentary on the present day when it's almost impossible to tell whether a dead wife wuz poisoned or drunk herself to death.

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—An enterprising newspaper reporter has definitely established the fact that the scar on "Scarface" Al Capone's phiz was made, not by a fragment of shrapnel in the World War, but by some other agency, less engaging.

All of which is about as important as the identity of the chap who called the piccolo player a son-of-a-gun.

A lad named Lewis Cory has written a book—one of those big impressive 5-buck volumes, called "The House of Morgan."

"The firm of J. P. Morgan is such a powerful factor in American life," says one reviewer, "and its operations have always been carried on in such impenetrable secrecy, that any light on it is to be prized."

A lot of us today have fallen into the way of revering mere wealth and power, "Greatness," in many cases, is the result of want of attention on the part of "The Men-in-the-Street." A good corrective for this sort of thing—if you find yourself falling into the habit—is to scan the figures and when you've finished say to yourself:

This thought occurred to me today when I received in the mail a typewritten sheet from the publicity director of one of Tammany

In the twelve months, ended January 2, says the Worthy Brother in a Broadstreet-Baritone, his hotel accommodated 700,000 guests who consumed 400,000,000 gallons of water; received a large share of 2,750,000 letters; left $30,000 in the pockets of suits sent to be pressed; nearly 280,000 miles in elevator (a distance considerably further than from the earth to the moon) and were responsible for a

NO MORE HORSE-LAUGHS

REMEMBER what our school books taught us about the lives of inventors who lived many years ago? How often we used to read, "He went on with his experiments in spite of the laughter of his friends, and the ridicule of his neighbors."

How different is the modern state of mind! This age is remarkable for its keen awareness of progress . . . the eager willingness of most of us to accept new things, and better ways. The skeptical person is the exception—expectancy is the rule. If we read about an invention that will wash the middle of our backs, we say, "Fair enough; tomorrow there will be an automatic way to keep our noses powdered."

New things and better ways are announced regularly in this paper . . . in the advertisements. Every day you may be expecting something that will make your life easier, pleasanter, more healthful. Possibly a new electrical contrivance, or a car that's easier to drive, or a new idea in breakfast foods. Follow the advertising columns . . . and sooner or later you'll get the good news. People who make it a point to know what's going on read the advertisements every day.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

1. General Von Steuben—Introduction

SEPTEMBER 17, 1930, MARKED THE 200TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BIRTH OF GENERAL BARON FREDERICK VON STEUBEN, REVOLUTIONARY WAR HERO AND ONE OF WASHINGTON'S GREATEST GENERALS, WHO SACRIFICED A LIFE OF COMFORT AND AFFLUENCE IN HIS NATIVE GERMANY TO SERVE THE STRUGGLING AMERICAN COLONIES IN THEIR HOUR OF NEED.

BORN IN THE FORTRESS OF MAGDEBURG IN 1730, FREDERICK VON STEUBEN CAME OF A FAMILY OF PRUSSIAN NOBLES THAT FOR 500 YEARS HAD BEEN FAMOUS FOR THEIR MILITARY PROWESS AND EXPLOITS.

HAVING SPRUNG FROM SUCH A LINE OF WARRIORS AND BEING THE SON OF A DISTINGUISHED PRUSSIAN OFFICER, IT IS NOT SURPRISING THAT FREDERICK AT AN EARLY AGE DECIDED TO BECOME A SOLDIER.

IN 1744 PRUSSIA WAS ENGAGED IN THE WAR OF THE AUSTRIAN SUCCESSION. YOUNG VON STEUBEN, THEN ONLY 14, LEFT HIS SCHOOL IN BRESLAU TO ACCOMPANY HIS FATHER AS A VOLUNTEER AIDE.

Classy Battlers Appeal To Fans

Davies Has Edge In Science;
Tobias Best Puncher

NICK ADAMO TACKLES MIDWAY IN SEMI-FINAL

Boxing as it actually is will be on tap next Monday night when Willie Davies and Paul Tobias, flyweights, each in the feature role of a five-bout show to be staged for the benefit of Mayor Gillespie's Relief Committee fund at the Castle Bowl, and if predictions do not slide away the "S. R. O." sign will be displayed.

And there are reasons for this: 1. It is a benefit show through which it is hoped to add to the Mayor's fund so he can aid the needy; 2. Davies and Tobias are two of the best in their division; 3. There is a deep-seated rivalry between Tobias and Davies and 4. Many persons who have never witnessed boxing as it actually is now have the opportunity.

Davies and Tobias have opposed the best in their class, which is 112 pound boxers. Each has met Midget Wolgast and it might be said at this time that Davies held a decision over Frankie Genaro. And now that it is off one's chest, it may be well to add that in Davies own record he is accredited with having lost to Tobias in 1923.

Davies is exceptionally clever and Tobias is an extraordinary puncher for a flyweight. Anytime a boxer meets a slugger the fans can look forward to fistie pyrotechnics and on paper the Tobias-Davies tilt in the minds of the fight fan appears much better than a Davies-Wolgast encounter.

No doubt the many persons who have never seen a boxing contest, but who have relished the radio accounts will be at the ringside to net their first "eyeful." Owing to their size they'll appeal to the women folk and already prominent personalities are arranging parties and it is believed there will be at least 1,000 of these present will be of the feminine gender.

It is rather doubtful if Eddie Fritz, matchmaker at the bowl could have made a more appropriate match for the main bout, especially in view of the fact that the attendance will be graced with a large number of women. No more gentlemanly boxers than Davies and Tobias are to be found. This has been proved during their visits to New Castle.

New Castle Card
And in making his other matches he played to New Castle boys. He matched Nick Adamo of the Seventh ward against Joe Midway of the central section of the city. Were one to meet either alone a thoroughfare their appearance would not denote their vocation. Although both have fought often neither has battle scars.

To be frank, Midway is said to be a "Tunny" for appearances while Adamo is an immaculate "attire" in the ring. Like all fistie gladiators, they're in there for "business." Neither has a trace of "ochre" and as they weigh more than 160 pounds, some heavy punching is to be expected.

Lefty Arnold who isn't "Lefty Arnold" at all, but a former scholastic football player and who has turned in many knockouts will tackle Elmer Bader who happens to be a southpaw. There is an old saying in the ring that "all southpaws are dangerous." A southpaw by the way is a chap who uses his left hand to manipulate a fork (should he forget etiquette).

"They'll weigh about 147. Badger has fought Russell Powers of Youngstown and in that encounter he gave Mr. Powers "boy Russ" a rather strenuous fight. In fact Elmer was the "hit" of the evening's "punch party" and he hopes to show next Monday night that Arnold is not the only New Castle boy who has a fistie future before him.

Roy Minter, the redheaded 116 pounder who copied Midget Wolgast's jumping-jack tactics and cuffed Long Sing Que for a defeat will take on a newcomer, Billy Mido. If Mido lives up to the reputation his manager gives him Roy will have a busy evening. He will be making his debut in the fourth round bout.

Walter West will tackle Johnny Banko. These lightweighters are scheduled to go four rounds but it is a safe prediction to say they will not for the simple reason that both are making their first appearance and being anxious to score a "kayo" each will let swings fly and it is rather certain someone is going to hear the "birds."

Man can't be related to the monkey. A monkey never ties itself and then howls because it isn't loose.

KEEPING It Hot

Stove League Gossip

Donie Bush, White Sox boss, has swung the ax and two Chicago rookies have found it sharp. Donie has handed Emil Barnes, red-haired and on outfielder, and Lowell Douglass, listed as a hurler, over to Atlanta.

Those two rookies must be wonders. Not many ball players can prove they won't do two months before the season begins.

The rumor that Pinky Whitney will be sold by the Phillies to the Cubs refuses to die out though the Quaker City club officials insist that next season the Phillies lineup will consist of Pinky Whitney and eight other fellows.

At that, the Phils might turn an eager ear to the Cubs if the Chicago placed one of their star moundmen into the deal. The Phils need pitchers like Amos needs Andy.

As we go to press Dazzy Vance is the lone regular Brooklyn pitcher unsigned for 1931 duty. Incidentally, the Robins are looking for another southpaw to match Freddy Heimach and Bill Clark.

Cleveland Indians still expect to acquire Muddy Ruel, aging but still highly capable catcher purchased from Washington by the Boston Red Sox. The Indians, needing another catcher badly, tried to get Ruel before the Red Sox deal and now may obtain him in a trade or sale with the Boston.

Giants' home games won't go on the air this year. New York National officials have decided not to lift their ban on radio broadcasts.

St. Mary's To Play At Butler

The St. Mary's five will go to Butler tomorrow night to play the Butler Paulists at the Butler floor. The locals have been practicing the past few days and are in good shape for the battle.

Father Nee directing the Saints plans a shift in his lineup for the next game, and it may be that Mancine, Gennock and Jones will get starting berths. The offense of the Saints has been anything but good lately, and a shakeup may work out all right.

The Paulists have a strong club and they have played some of the best teams in this district. The Butler team like the local crew is made up of ex-high and college stars.

HOW LONG WILL IT LAST?

Losers Become Popular Among New York Fans

Fighters Beaten Many Times Have Lately Become Champions In New

Max Baer, Of California Is Latest Heavyweight To Gain Recognition

By COPELAND C. BURG

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Nothing succeeds like failure.

If you don't believe it, quit your bank president job and come to New York to score a success as a prize-fighter.

Everyone beat Tony Canzonero, so they made him lightweight champion; Fidel Labrara defeated Kid Chocolate, so the Keed fought Bat Battalino for the featherweight title; Billy Petrolle knocked Jimmy McLarnin and hasn't been given a New York rumble since. Vince Dundee signed his death warrant last week by whipping Len Harvey of England, who is receiving more offers than Stribling.

In fact, the breakfast greeting nowadays for managers and their valiant boys is: "If we can only lose this one, we'll own Broadway."

The latest loss and become famous personage is Max Baer of California. He dropped one to Ernie Schaff a couple of weeks ago in Madison Square Garden. Ernie went fishing off Boston and Maxie came right back for another bout. He meets Tom Heeney, the old guide, at the Garden on Friday night in the big fight of the week. Of course Baer has not lost as many fights as Heeney but he's just started losing and he got a very poor start out in his native state by scoring 20 knockouts in 27 starts. Too much confidence was blamed for this bad record.

But Baer easily assumed the "in the New York manner" and if he loses this week there is no reason why he should not become one of our most promising heavyweight contenders. As a matter of fact Heeney did very well losing to such as Gene Tunney, Victorio Campolo and Tuffy Griffiths and Max knows he must lose this one most decisively if he is to be considered with a future in the ring game.

Walter St. Denis, the publicity agent who has the toughest job in the world because every day he must tell why a bad loser is better than a good winner at the Garden, had something interesting to offer about Baer today. Walter reports that Baer may fight Max Schmeling, even before the champion loses his breath or anything.

It seems Schmeling is slowly but surely waiving over this way to fight anyone but Jack Sharkey and he needs a "one up" match for the championship being adventure. Ancil Hoffman, who as a publicity man always says "guides the destinies" of the young Californian, had made Joe Jacobs, chief guide for Schmeling, an offer for a Maxie-Maxie bout on the coast in March or April. Hoffman is also a promoter and will stage the bout.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Bill Ingram has resigned as coach of football at the U. S. naval academy.

Win Day, 15, won the Miami mid-winter amateur golf tourney from Lee Chase.

Jack Dempsey has rated Young Stribling as best of the present 'heavies'.

Eddie Loos and Al Espinosa tied with 36 for totals of 139 in the $10,000, Los Angeles open tourney yesterday.

Pro Golfers Are In Final Round

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 12.—With $10,000 in prize money in the offing, the class of professional golfers will tee off here today in the final 36 holes of the Los Angeles open golf tournament. But one amateur, Roland Mackenzie of Washington, D. C., is among the leaders.

Al Espinosa and Eddie Loos, Chicago pros, are leading the formidable field, each taking 139 strokes for the first 36 holes.

Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, is one stroke in their wake, and Frank Walsh, Chicago, is up in front with a 141.

Craig Wood, New Jersey, and W. H. Cox, Brooklyn, are tied in the 143 bracket, while Harry Cooper MacKenzie, Tommy Armour, Tony Manero and Walter Hagen are one stroke higher.

Ingram Quits As Coach For Navy

(International News Service)

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 12.—The Navy today joined California, Penn., Alabama and other institutions in the quest for a football coach. William "Navy Bill" Ingram announced in a telegram from the midwest that he would not return this year to coach the Middies on the gridiron.

It was understood here that Ingram had signed to coach at another school but no announcement was made of his new post. Ingram came to Annapolis in 1926. Last season Navy had its worst year under his direction and the coach was said to be discouraged with results.

Westminster Plays Two Home Games This Week; Meet Waynesburg Wednesday

Strong Allegheny Club On Home Floor Saturday Night

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 12.—With two victories over college teams and three over independent clubs, Coach "Pops" Harrison's Westminster college basketball team swings into action in earnest this week, meeting Waynesburg on the home floor Wednesday night and Allegheny at home on Saturday night.

Waynesburg has won five games and lost one so far this season, boasting of a victory over Penn State and being defeated only by Duquesne. As a result, the Yellowjackets will present the strongest team they have had in a number of seasons, and the Titans will have to play their best ball to win on Wednesday.

One bright ray of light faces Coach Harrison. All the members of the varsity squad are available again. Considine, Newton and Hamas, all out with injuries, are back on the squad again. All saw action against Manchester on Saturday night and will no doubt be used in this week's games.

Hearts Vanquish First Christians

Baptists Win And Lose While Highland Takes Forfeit Game

Sacred Hearts defeated the First Christians 21-17. Central Christians forfeited to Highland. U. P. St. John's Lutherans nosed out First Baptists 11-10 and Wesley Methodist lost to First Baptists 15-12 in church basketball league games Saturday night at the Y.

The St. Johns-First Baptist tilt was the most exciting. St. Johns led four-two at the end of the quarter, six-three at the half and were forced every second of play to keep out in front. In the clash between the Wesley M. E. and First Baptist, the latter led throughout and won by making a field and a foul goal to three fouls for their foes in the last half.

The lineups:
Wesley M. E. First Baptists
Gibson F. T. Wallace
Crichtlow F. Cimmerich
Morrison C. Brenner
W. Rech G. W. Wallace

Coaltown To Play Marcellas Tonight

Tonight on the Coaltown floor the Coaltown basketball team will meet the Marcella quintet. A fast contest is anticipated.

The Marcella team has been going for the past two weeks and the South Siders are optimistic about defeating the Coaltown passers. On Wednesday night the Marcellas meet the Sacred Hearts and Bessemer Boosters the same night.

Tunney-Dempsey Squabble
The last important heavyweight sham battle before the current one was to squabble that barred the first Gene Tunney-Jack Dempsey fight from New York forums. Tex Rickard to take the bout to Philadelphia, which city reaped all the benefits.

New history is only repeating itself. Chicago is almost sure to be the stage setting for the next heavyweight championship fight because the boys just can't seem to get together in Gotham.

However, the wise fight follower though amused by such controversy never forgets that it's good ballyhoo and that good ballyhoo makes for very fat gate receipts, my friends.

Big Ten Teams Await Tip-Offs

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Things were turned upside down in the Western conference basketball race today as eight teams awaited the tip-off to night in contests which may further scramble the standings.

As the result of five games played Saturday night Minnesota, Ohio State, Chicago and Northwestern are tied for first place. The four contests tonight bring together Northwestern and Illinois at Champaign, Ill., Wisconsin and Michigan at Ann Arbor, Purdue at Iowa and Ohio State at Indiana.

Titans Swamp Manchester Y By 59-21 Score On Saturday

Harrison Uses Twelve Players In Game Against Invaders

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 12.—Undeclared in 15 games the strong Manchester Y. M. C. A. team of Northside Pittsburgh went down to its first defeat here Saturday night when Westminster ran up a 59-21 score on the independent club.

It did not take long to see the final outcome once the Westminster team started scoring, although the Titans played ragged ball all evening and would have had a much larger score had not Coach Harrison made frequent shifts in the lineup and in wholesale fashion, often substituting four new men at one time. Twelve players saw action for Westminster in the contest.

Arthur's tallied first with a field goal for the Titans, and Mitchell, star forward for the Y team, scored the count with a two-pointer. From this point on Westminster took the lead and increased it so that at half time the Titans were leading 26-6.

In the second half, Mitchell was able to score three field goals, Tueseher two, and Updegraff one for Manchester as the Titan defense held to one field goal in the first half and tallied six in the second period.

Brownlee led the Titans in scoring with five field goals and three fouls for 13 points, while Koehran was not far behind tallying five field goals for 10 points. Mitchell led in scoring for the visitors with four field goals.

All 12 men used by Harrison figured in the scoring for Westminster, and 10 of the men tallied field goals.

The lineups:

Westminster PG F T
Considine F. 0 3-5 3
Siljander F. 3 1-1 7
Arthurs C. 3 1-4 7
Rice G. 2 0-3 4

Lutheran Church Weekly Program

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 12.—Activities this week in the Trinity Lutheran church are announced as follows:

This evening there will be a monthly meeting of the Brotherhood Bible class in the social rooms of the church.

Wednesday all day, members of the Willing Workers will meet in the social rooms of the church.

Next Sunday will be Holy Communion and baptism of children in the church.

At the close of the morning service yesterday, an adjourned congregational meeting was held, with Rev. L. J. Baker presiding. The meeting opened with the reading of the minutes of two former meetings by Moberg Nelson, secretary. Financial reports were heard and filed from Financial secretary, Benevolence secretary, Building committee; Brotherhood Bible class, Womens Missionary society, Willing Workers, Sunday school, Queen Esther Bible class, Truth Seekers class, Luther League, Choir and Cradle roll.

Other Local Pastors Assist In Making Impressive Service For 1931 Class

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 12.—A record crowd thronged the Lincoln auditorium to hear the Baccalaureate sermon Sunday evening for members of the 1931 January graduating class of the Lincoln High school.

The rich blue curtain rolled back to disclose a stage set with palms and ferns and the High school band grouped in the center, and eight local ministers, four on either side of the band. The opening musical number was "Sabbath Chimes," by LaForest and then, to the tune of "Onward Christian Soldiers" commenced the graduation procession from the rear of the auditorium led by Fred Robuck, president. The seniors, sixty-five of them, in their grey caps and motor boards, made an impressive picture. The assemblage then sang "Faith of Our Fathers" led by Paul Winters.

Rev. R. A. Little of the M. E. church acted as master of ceremonies, and introduced Rev. W. E. Minter of the U. P. church who pronounced the invocation. Then followed two fine musical numbers by the girls chorus "Memory Bells" by Myers and "The Sabbath Day" by Mendelssohn. Rev. A. M. Stevenson of the First Presbyterian church read the scriptures, lesson from Matthew 5, first to 16th verses. Rev. Charles Bell offered a prayer. The Brass Ensemble of the school band then rendered "The Lord's Chord," by Sullivan.

Rev. Little then introduced Rev. Bert Williams of the First Presbyterian church who delivered a strong and stirring address on the subject "Making the Grade." He divided his sermon into several interesting divisions, gleaned from a little original booklet compiled by himself during his lifetime, entitled "Making the Grade of Life." In his opening remarks he stated that too many people are content with making the easier grades, and occupying the lesser positions in life. That on the highway of life the straight roads with no hills are jammed with traffic, while the steep, rocky grades have no traffic trouble.

The power to make a decision is important along the road of life and early decisions made regarding one's life work, are most important. Rev. Williams urged the Senior class members to seek "jobs" not positions according to their various talents and then proceed to make good. In connection with this he quoted two famous mottoes that always hung in the office of the late Theodore Roosevelt "Be Sure You are Right—Then Go Ahead" and "Seek Points of Contact."

The next point emphasized was Preparation—"Get Set to Win" admonished Rev. Williams "Prepare well for your world's work. Failure is the direct result of lack of preparation." He quoted from Abraham Lincoln who said "I Will Study, get ready and perhaps my chance will come."

The next division was labeled, "Hard Work." The speaker pointed out that nobody gets anywhere without hard work. As Thomas A. Edison is quoted as saying "Inspiration is 99 per cent perspiration." And last but not least every student should have a cheery, optimistic outlook toward the future. Rev. Williams' sermon was human, straight to the point, and contained an important message for the audience as well as the graduating class. The congregation then sang "Abide with Me" and Rev. H. D. Maxwell pronounced the benediction.

Pie Eating Record, Ten In Ten Minutes

(International News Service)

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 12.—With tree sitting contests decidedly passe among bydom, the youthful generation of this town has taken to pie-eating contests.

To date, Toodoo Pesamo, 12, has outdistanced all competition by consuming 10 blackberry pies in less than 10 minutes at a contest held here recently. He was still going strong, with a lot of room on his face for more blackberry juice when the supply of pies gave out.

Toodoo's nearest competitor was left almost at the boys' door. He could eat only three pies.

SPEAK RIGHT UP

The small, nervous husband was having an unpleasant interview with the large, muscular cook whom he was reprimanding on account of her numerous breakages.

"Look 'ere," said she, "you can't frighten me—I'm a 'dreadnought', that's what I am!"

"Well," replied the other, looking at the heap of broken china, "I would rather say—that you are a destroyer!"—Bystander.

McMillen Hopes To Climb Ladder

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Jim McMillen moves up a step nearer the goal he has set for himself in the wrestling world when he tackles Gino Garibaldi, Italian grappler in the feature match to a finish at the seventy first regiment armory tonight.

The winner was expected to meet Jim Londos, recognized as champion in New York, in two weeks.

AUXILIARY MEETING

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 12.—Members of the American Legion auxiliary meet in monthly session Tuesday evening in the Legion rooms on Sixth street. Members are planning to bring silk hose and ties which will be sent to the Coatesville Hospital for disabled veterans of the war, and used for the making of rugs.

ELLWOOD PERSONALS

Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Gold of Wayne avenue were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Scott of Alliquippa yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Davis have returned from Lorraine, O., where Mr. Davis has been doing special work.

CRANDALL

OLD OIS CRANDALL'S return to the big leagues remains old-timers of some of the pitching feats of the veteran when he was a member of the New York Giants and later a pitcher in the Federal league.

Crandall had a remarkable change of pace and that is one of the reasons the Pittsburgh Pirates have taken him on as a coach. If Crandall can impart some of the things he knows about that particular phase of pitching, the Pirate mound corps is bound to benefit.

It was chiefly due to Crandall's remarkable control and change of pace that enabled him to perform as a very successful pitcher in the National league from 1908 to 1913.

Though well past 40 years of age Crandall pitched on the Pacific coast and in the middle west until just recently. He also experimented at one time with the job of managing a team when he was part owner of the Wichita club.

Stribling Rated First By Dempsey

Former Champion Picks Stribling As Leading Heavyweight Of Country To-day

MAX SCHMELING IS RATED SECOND

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Jack Dempsey rates W. L. (Young) Stribling the rejuvenated Georgian, as the best heavyweight fighter in the world today. The ex-champion puts Max Schmeling, stripped of his title in New York, in second place and revives the old feud with Jack Sharkey by placing the Boston gobbler third.

Dempsey's rankings of the world boxers for 1930 are made in a copyright article in the February issue of The Ring, international boxing magazine.

"If Sharkey should have ten more opportunities to win the crown, he still will fall short of the mark," Dempsey said. "Were I to attempt a comeback, as poor as I might physically be, there is one heavyweight I'm sure I can lick—none other than Jack Sharkey."

Likes Stribling

Dempsey predicted that Stribling would whip Schmeling. After Sharkey, he rates Primo Camera and Griffith as best of the remaining heavyweights.

Jack Picks Maxie Roenbloom, light heavyweight champion; Mickey Walker, middleweight king; Jack Kid Berg, junior welterweight titleholder; Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion; Benny Bass, junior lightweight; Bat Battalino, featherweight titleholder; Al Brown, bantam and Midget Wolgast, New York State flyweight champion, as best in their respective divisions.

Stressing the importance of Young Corbett's victories over Fields and Thompson in welterweight matches, Jack rates the California welterweight ahead of Tommy Freeman, the champion. He puts Earl Mastro, of Chicago, next to Battalino and ahead of Fidel La Barba and Kid Chocolate in the featherweight class.

Places Walker High

Although placing Mickey Walker at the top of the middleweights, the Manassa Mauler states that "Mickey is seeking to emulate Bob Fitzsimmons, but there is no comparison between the two."

Jack rates Len Harvey and Dave Shade as the leading middleweight contenders. His rating of Harvey was made before the Briton lost to Vince Dundee last Friday. He puts Jack Kid Berg and Billy Petrolle next to Canzoneri in the lightweight division and names Kid Francis as the leading contender for Al Brown's bantamweight crown.

Marcella Passers Defeat Croton

South Siders Look Impressive In Downing Croton Quintet Before Big Crowd

Before one of the biggest crowds ever to attend a floor game down the South Side, an impressive Marcella basketball team added the Croton Progressive quintet to its victory list on the Savio gym on Friday night. The final score was 46-12.

The game was fast throughout. The first half ended with the South Siders leading by a 16-6 score. In the second half the Marcella cagers managed to pile up a big score. Marino was the outstanding player of the contest, finding the hoop for 7 field goals. F. Marcella and Russo aside from playing a good guarding game tallied three times from the field.

Morgan and Cook were the only Crotonites who figured in the scoring. The Marcellas have a hard schedule this week, meeting Coal-town tonight and playing the Sacred Hearts and Baysaver on Wednesday night on the Savio gym. On Friday night Harlansburg will meet the Marcellas.

The summary follows:

Marcellas 46. Croton 12.

Scopio.....F..... Lionelli

Marella.....F..... Cavalier

Tomasello.....C..... Cook

Russo.....G..... Morgan

F. Marcella.....G..... Coladuca

Substitutions—Marcellas, Marino, C. Richards, P. Richards.

Field goals—Marino 7, F. Marcella 3, Russo 3, C. Richards 2, Marella 1, Tomasello 1, DiThomas 2, Morgan 3, Cook 1.

Fouls—Marcella, 12 out of 25; Croton 4 out of 17.

Referee—Tony Tino.

Four Games In Church League

Four important games are on tap tonight in the New Castle Church League at the Y. M. C. A. The first game starts at 8 o'clock.

The first battle is between the Third U. P. and Finnish Lutherans. The second game, First M. E., and Wampum Presbyterians. The third game, St. John's Lutheran and Second U. P. Fourth game, Central Christians and Wesley M. E. There are two A league and two B league battles.

Don't sneer at the extravagance of the rich. The more carelessly the seed is scattered, the more there is for the birds.

Pie Eating Record, Ten In Ten Minutes

(International News Service)

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 12.—With tree sitting contests decidedly passe among bydom, the youthful generation of this town has taken to pie-eating contests.

To date, Toodoo Pesamo, 12, has outdistanced all competition by consuming 10 blackberry pies in less than 10 minutes at a contest held here recently. He was still going strong, with a lot of room on his face for more blackberry juice when the supply of pies gave out.

Toodoo's nearest competitor was left almost at the boys' door. He could eat only three pies.

Plays Dramatic Part

In Judge Buying Probe

Enmerich Boczor, formerly the confidential secretary of Magistrate George F. Ewald, in whose house the above girl, Marie, is living, Boczor declared in court that the child is "Ewald's own." She was photographed on her way to school, quite ignorant of the dramatic part she is playing in the Ewald case.

Pope Assails Divorce

And Trial Marriage

The full power and authority of the Roman Catholic Church were invoked by Pope Pius XI (above) to uphold the sanctity of Christian marriages and to stamp out birth control, "companionate" marriage and divorce.

The Decision

The court held against Elmer Urah. The judges reasoned thus: A written admission of a previous verbal contract makes that contract binding.

NEW YORK STOCKS

No Special Developments In Stock Market Trading

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—In the absence of special developments in business and trade over the weekend, stocks were unusually dull and quiet in the early trading today.

Wall Street displayed no special interest in the Steel corporation's report on tonnage submitted after the close of Saturday's market. The December increase of 303,000 tons was in line with expectations, and Big Steel sold within a small fractional range of the previous close, after dipping for a short period to 142 1/4.

Small losses were recorded in the active stocks in the first period when the left-overs from Saturday's selling orders came in the market. With the selling orders out of the way the market attempted a feeble rally, but trading dried up early in the second hour and speculative interest evaporated.

Not even the floor traders displayed any special interest in the sluggish movement of the speculative favorites.

Another prominent banker joined the list of those advocating reduction of war debts for "business reasons" when Albert Wiggin, head of the biggest bank in the world announced his views on this important question. Wiggin would also cut down the tariff walls and reduce the capital tax.

Dullness ruled in the Grain, Cotton and Commodity markets and call money was offered at 1 per cent in the outside market.

A few of the Steel, Copper and Utility stocks were churned around in the second hour, but the market as a whole displayed no more activity than a slow, mid-summer session. Call money renewed on the board at 1 1/2 per cent.

"Alfalfa" Murray Is Inaugurated

Eccentric Oklahoma Governor Will Take Over Reins Of Office Today

BORROWS MONEY TO PAY EXPENSES

(International News Service)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 12.—William H. "Alfalfa" Murray, will be sworn in as governor of Oklahoma at noon today.

Murray, who borrowed $250 from a bank in Tishomingo to carry him over the expense of the inauguration, is quartered in one of the older hotels here preparatory to taking over the executive mansions which carries with it a salary of $7,500 a year and $500 a month for expenses of its upkeep.

"Bill," as he is called by natives of the state, who are here in force with 10-gallon hats and cowboy boots much in evidence, has repudiated one of his campaign statements, or at least admits he was only "funning" when he said it.

During the campaign Murray brought much applause from his listeners by declaring that if elected he would rent out the mansion and live in the garage.

"I will pasture my cow on the state house lawn and let her drink out of the lily ponds and plant potatoes in the rose gardens," Murray declared in pre-election speeches.

Today he said, "Of course we'll live in the executive mansion, that's what it's for."

Principals To Meet Tuesday

MERCHANTS DEFEAT BUTLER

The New Wilmington Merchants continued their winning streak by defeating the Phalanx Club of Butler on Saturday night by the score of 42 to 30. The locals jumped into the lead at the very start of the game and at half time led the Butler team by the score of 28 to 10. Byers, Hutchison and Patterson played good ball for the local team, while Muxonti and Betty looked best for the visitors.

ROAMING

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

One of the places in this part of the state which is often spoken of, but comparatively few, is the Pymatuning swamp, the site of the Pymatuning dam. Mention it and everybody knows what you mean. Ask for its exact location and few can give it to you.

Rode up yesterday for the purpose of seeing just where the big dam will be, when it is built, and found it to be in one of the most out of the way places imaginable. Meant driving dirt roads which were greasy with mud in some spots and heavy with snow in others. And what a spot that swamp is.

Leaving Jamestown you take Route 322 out to a little place called Turnerville. The reason you know it is Turnerville is because you stop at the house on the main corner of the village and ask one of the inhabitants. Your suspicions are confirmed. Then you turn off on to a worse road and head for the Shenango river a quarter of a mile away.

It is in this district that the abutments of the dam will be placed, at a point between Jamestown and Turnerville. Here will be the flood gates of the huge lake, and the sleepy little village of Turnerville is due for an awakening.

The swamp begins at Turnerville and goes north to Linesville, and the dam will cover this swamp. Nor will it be just an ordinary dam. It will form a lake ten times larger than Conneaut, and four fifths as large as Chautauque.

Here will be impounded the flood waters of the Shenango river and its tributaries north of Turnerville, in a lake averaging about thirty feet deep. The level of the Shenango will be raised the year round, the dangers of flood removed, and the industries and the people of the entire Shenango valley benefited.

North of Turnerville is a huge basin, trapped by hills, an ideal site for a dam or lake. Centuries ago it probably was a huge lake but today it is just a huge swamp, filled with reeds and trees and bushes, peopled by musk rats and snakes. When the dam is built, there will be a wonderful lake there, turning miles of the shore line into a summer resort, providing sites for summer homes, and in winter providing a place for skating. This in addition to the immeasurable value it will be as a means of water supply and flood control.

It's a desolate country up there. Few houses, and miles of swamp. Years ago an endeavor was made to have the swamp drained and the land reclaimed for agricultural purposes. Then somebody discovered that there was the place to control the waters of the Shenango river and the idea of the Pymatuning dam was started.

Thus far the State of Pennsylvania and private interests have spent $1,800,000 on the purchase of land. All the land is now bought with the exception of less than a thousand acres, and the next money spent will be for the erection of the abutments of the dam.

Roads will have to be abandoned and relocated, thousands of acres of land will be covered with water, and instead of a swamp up there, a beautiful lake extending over the Ohio border line will result.

Winter seems to play a continuous engagement up in that country. Some of the dirt roads were heavy with snow yesterday, although south of Greenville there was little evidence of it.

It is to be hoped that the dam will soon be under construction. To New Castle it is a vital thing, for it means more water in the Shenango river, something that will aid the industries and the water supply.

Grandmother, Child Subdue Fire; Praised By Firemen For Courage

The New Castle fire department today paid official tribute to a grandmother and her grandchild for unusual courage and perseverance in the face of danger when Fire Chief Lynn recorded their deed in the official city fire report.

At the same time the fire chief could not help but tell what a wonderful firewoman he found in Mrs. Margaret Durkin, a widow, of 124 South Jefferson street, who, aided by an eight-year-old grandchild, quelled a fire in a bedroom of their home Sunday morning in a way that won the admiration of the entire fire department.

"How this woman and young boy ever got the fire out is beyond me," Chief Lynn declared. "It really was a job for the fire department, and there is no question that if we had been called it would have been a booster tank and axe job."

How Mrs. Durkin and her grandson, Jack Murray, aged 8, put out the fire by themselves is still a matter of vociferous discussion at central fire station. The woman and two grandchildren, Jack and Billie aged 4, were alone Sunday morning Mrs. Durkin's daughter, Mrs. Mary Murray was away.

Grandmother and children were downstairs at the time. Jack was sent to an upstairs bedroom to see if the electric light had been left lighted. Jack, according to Mrs. Durkin, soon came running downstairs, shouting that the house was on fire.

Mrs. Durkin rushed to the bedroom and discovered that the grate fireplace had fired the wooden mantle. A mattress on a bed near the fireplace was also ablaze.

The woman raced into the bathroom for water which she dashed on the flames. Then she struggled with the heavy mattress and succeeded in dragging it from the room. She pushed the burning mattress from a window to a rear porch roof.

Mrs. Durkin returned to battle with the fire, which by this time had done considerable damage to the bedroom. The mantle fire had made its way to the floor and was getting a good start under the floorboards.

She called young Jack to help her get water. Billie was on the first floor during the height of the excitement.

After a quarter of an hour of quiet battle with the fire in their home Mrs. Durkin and her grandson saw the last of the threatening flames snuffed out.

At 12:30 p. m. Mrs. Durkin called the fire department and requested

Captain Byers to come to her home and inspect the fire ruins. Byers later reported his find to Chief Lynn. Chief Lynn said the woman reported the fire only after she could smell an odor from the burned wood after it had cooled off, and thought that perhaps she had not extinguished the fire properly.

"Mrs. Durkin is one woman in a thousand that could have done the job in the manner she did," Chief Lynn said. "She did not seem the least excited. Hundreds of fires have been caused in this city in the same way and although they were not half as bad as this fire, the department always has a job on hand," the fire chief said.

Damage to the building and contents was estimated at approximately $50.
